Sloan Was Assured of No Retribution on Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr. testified today he had feared administration retribution for telling the truth about the Watergate wiretapping, but was assured it wouldn't happen.

And he said he threw up his hands when the man he accused of asking him to lie, former campaign deputy Jeb S. Magruder, was given a $36,000-a-year government job.

Sloan testified at the Senate's televised Watergate hearings that he visited White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman last January after testifying as a government witness at the trial of the Watergate burglars.

He said Haldeman assured him the administration wouldn't stand in the way of his finding a private job, but that no one regarded as a "Watergate figure" would be given a high government job until the case was cleared up.

Sloan said he felt very good about the meeting, but a few days later read that Magruder had been appointed to a policy post in the Commerce Department. "At that time I just threw up my hands," Sloan said.

Sloan said he told Haldeman: "I want you to know that I feel that I did not leave the team. As far as I'm concerned, the team left me."

Sloan also told the Senate's televised Watergate hearings that he does not believe Maurice H. Stans, the Nixon campaign finance chairman, was involved in any illegal activities. Stans has been indicted by a federal grand jury in New York, and has pleaded innocent to conspiracy charges in a fund-raising case.

"I did not and do not believe that Secretary Stans was in any way involved in the criminal activities," Sloan said in discussing the Watergate case. "I thought he had been left holding the bag..."

Sloan said he sought the White House meeting with Haldeman after the Watergate trial last January because he was seeking private employment. He said there seemed to be a lull in the case, that it seemed Watergate "had been gotten away with, that it had stopped with the seven men" who were convicted or pleaded guilty at the trial.

Sloan said people then involved in the Nixon political apparatus were opposed to his views and actions in testifying about campaign payments.

He said he therefore wanted to make clear to Haldeman "why I had done what I had done," and wanted also to be sure there would be no effort at retribution.

"The fear of retribution?" Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., asked Sloan.

"Retribution," Sloan replied.

In testimony prepared for delivery later in the day, Herbert L. Porter, who was director of scheduling during the campaign, said he was not involved in Watergate or the cover-up.

"I have been guilty of a deep sense of loyalty to the President of the United States," Porter said. "At no time did I knowingly engage in any cover-up of the Watergate burglary. I had no prior knowledge of the Watergate burglary."

Porter said he was never involved in politics prior to his joining the Nixon campaign in May 1971. He said he worked briefly for White House communications director Herbert G. Klein prior to joining the Committee for the Re-Election of the President to organize the surrogate candidate program.

Porter said he has cooperated with federal prosecutors and Senate investigators, never sought immunity and "made no deals."

Porter said the Watergate affair has had "a most devastating effect" on his personal life, has cost him a lucrative job in private industry and forced him to lose his house in California.

As the committee resumed its televised hearings, special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox was seeking to block news coverage of some future proceedings, a move likely to be opposed by committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin.

BULLETIN

Highway Patrol officers apprehended an unidentified man less than 30 minutes after a robbery was reported at the Star Service Station, Broadway and Engineer, according to police. The Patrol officers reportedly stopped the vehicle north of Sedalia.

James Woolridge, manager of the station, said the station's cash register was opened while he was checking the man's car. The lock to the register was jammed, according to reports, and an undetermined amount of cash was stolen. The robbery reportedly occurred at 12:33 p.m. Thursday.

South Vietnam Won't Sign Any Paris Truce Agreement

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam served notice today it will not sign any new truce agreement worked out in Paris by Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho of North Vietnam.

The U.S. presidential adviser called off a morning session with Tho in Paris but showed up for the scheduled afternoon session in a jovial mood.

Explaining the cancellation of the morning session, Kissinger told newsmen: "There was no particular reason. We just needed more time to prepare something."

Leading up to these developments were outbreaks of fighting in South Vietnam and in Cambodia.

The South Vietnamese military command reported that Communist command forces attacked for the fourth day in a row Wednesday in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon but were repelled.

The South Vietnamese announcement that it will not sign any new truce agreements was viewed in some quarters here as an indication the Saigon government is concerned that the United States may be making concessions to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

Kissinger and Tho are working on ways to implement the original cease-fire agreement signed in Paris on Jan. 27.

President Nguyen Van Thieu met in Saigon earlier in the day with his National Security Council. This was followed by a statement read by the government spokesman, Bui Bao Truc. It said, in part:

"During the past few days, there has been some speculation among the local press as well as the foreign press in Saigon that the Republic of Vietnam is going to sign sometime this week a new agreement in Paris.

"I would like to take this opportunity to say that these were purely speculations without any grain of truth..."

The fighting in Cambodia in recent days has centered around Highway 4 southwest of the capital, Phnom Penh. This road runs to the Gulf of Siam, where Cambodia has its only deepwater seaport.

The major action in South Vietnam has been in the Mekong Delta.

The largest attack was on an infantry position near the district town of Kien Thien, 115 miles southwest of Saigon. The command said 46 Communists were killed in the assault and put government losses at three dead and 16 wounded.

The delta has been an arena of fierce fighting since Sunday. By Saigon's count, 207 Communist troops have been killed there in the last four days, while government forces have lost 29 dead, 72 wounded and eight missing.

Sharp fighting also was reported around two South Vietnamese positions in Binh Dinh Province on the central coast. Saigon military sources said captured documents indicate the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong plan to escalate hostilities in Binh Dinh and Quang Ngai provinces, both long-time Communist strongholds.

The Viet Cong delegation to the Joint Military Commission announced a South Vietnamese fighter-bomber was shot down May 12 over Binh Long Province, adjoining the Cambodian border, and the two crewmen were captured.

County Firemen List Their Wage Demands

Members of Pettis County Firefighters Local 2228 Thursday presented to the County Court an eight-point proposal calling for a three-year contract and an additional $53,000 in wages and benefits.

Presiding Judge Harry Walsh said the court would discuss the matter with the firefighters next week.

Firefighters Robert Paxton and Howard Teague, Local 2228 president, presented the paper to the court. City firefighter Robert Vogler, Local 823 president, accompanied the county firemen. He said he would serve as an "observer and adviser" in negotiations.

Teague said even though just three of the present six employees of the county fire department are members of Local 2228, the proposals were approved by each employee.

The eight-point plan calls for:

- ✓ An increase in wages of $300 a month per man over the next three years. Specifically, a $150 increase retroactive to Jan. 1 and additional $75 increases over the next two years. This increase would raise the firefighters' salaries to $1.73 an hour from the present rate of $1.28 an hour, according to the proposal. The increase would cost the county $9,000 this year and $9,000 the next two years.

- ✓ A cost of living allowance to be paid on one lump sum on Dec. 1 each year. The cost would depend on the rate of inflation, Teague said.

- ✓ Seven paid holidays. Presently, Teague said, county firemen have no paid holidays.

- ✓ The hiring of another firefighter and reduction of working hours from 72 to 56 per week.

- ✓ Blue Cross and Blue Shield insurance benefits to be paid by the County Court.

- ✓ Seven days vacation for the first three years, 14 days vacation for firemen from three to eight-years experience, 21 days for nine through 12-years of experience and 30

Wholesale Price Index Jumps Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wholesale price index, a measure of inflation in the economy, took another enormous jump in May, rising 2.1 per cent over April, the Labor Department reported today.

The index showed wholesale prices increasing at an annual rate of 25.2 per cent.

The biggest increases were in farm products which were up 6.1 per cent over April. The general increase in farm prices followed a decline of .2 per cent in April.

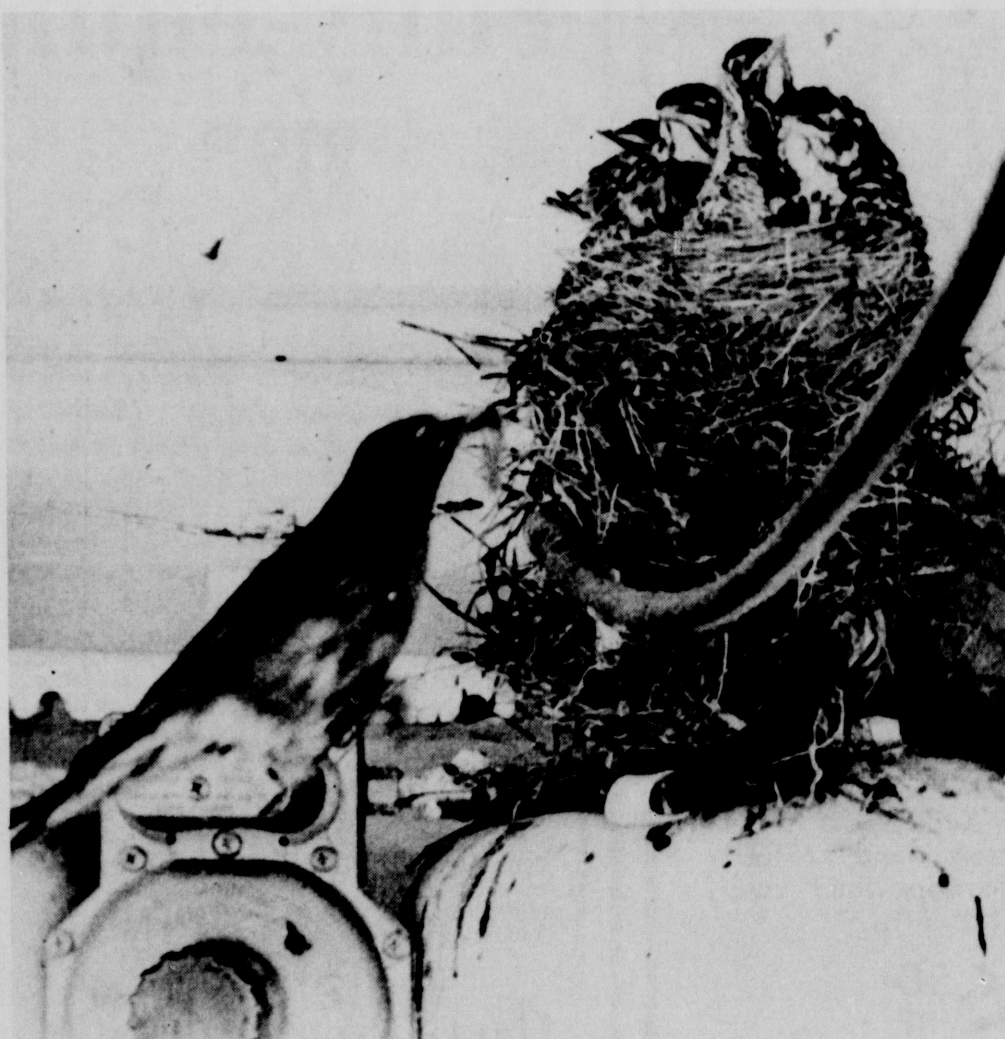

The report was more bad economic news for the Nixon administration since it showed prices were not making the mid-year decline that economists had predicted.

AFL-CIO President George Meany issued a statement saying the index report was "another clear indication of the utterly lopsided nature of the administration's economic program..."

He said only workers' wages are under control, "while prices, profits and interest rates are soaring."

Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers issued the official administration reaction to the figures. It declared that "most of the speed-up was caused by another surge in prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds."

Stein indicated some satisfaction that prices of consumer foods "rose only .3 per cent."

Astronauts Struggle To Free Panel

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two Skylab astronauts stepped outside their space station today and struggled to unjam a solar panel that would restore nearly full power to the orbiting laboratory.

Commander Charles Conrad Jr. and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin began a dramatic space walk shortly before noon EDT, climbing through an airlock hatch. They were attached to 60-foot lifelines that fed air and oxygen to their bulky spacesuits.

It became apparent almost immediately that without proper foot and hand restraints they would have trouble fastening down a makeshift handrail that was to ease Conrad's way across the station to the stuck panel.

With Kerwin breathing heavily, Conrad asked: "Getting tired?"

"I'm not tired," Kerwin replied. "I'm a little frustrated because I have no place to secure myself. It's a matter of keeping my feet from flying away."

The third crewman, Paul J. Weitz, remained inside the station to monitor systems and relay Mission Control radio messages. He pointed a television camera out a window and pictures recorded in the control center here showed Kerwin's legs flying loose as he attempted to attach the handrail.

Conrad exited first, and Kerwin handed out five five-foot tubes which the commander assembled into the 25-foot handrail. On one end he attached a cable-cutting device, one of several tools they had for attempting to cut through an aluminum strap which is holding the solar wing against the side of the workshop.

Taxicabs, Ambulances Discussed by Council

A meeting will be arranged with a local taxicab company owner, the municipal ordinance dealing with ambulances will be revised, and the City Council probably will not reconsider its Monday decision to decline the County Court's request for reassessment participation, it was learned at a special council session Wednesday night.

The council and Mayor Jerry Jones briefly discussed Monday night's action concerning not helping the county with reassessment. Councilman George Dugan Jr. of the Fourth Ward pointed out that several councilmen were not heard in the voice vote, and that it might be beneficial for the council to discuss with the County Court what type of cooperation in other areas could be achieved if the city did contribute financially to reassessment.

Councilman Raymond Bales of the Second Ward restated the opposition to city participation which he expressed Monday night. He dismissed cooperation in other areas as being of little value and criticized the court's public stance that the reassessment will be an equalizer when, he said, it is actually intended to be a method of increasing revenue.

The discussion was ended when it became apparent that nothing would be accomplished beyond Monday's action.

Information sent to the council by Don Feeback, administrator at Bothwell Hospital, concerning a hospital-controlled ambulance service was discussed. All the councilmen who commented indicated they felt the cost would be prohibitive.

"I'd like to see it operated through the hospital but not at these prices," Third Ward Councilman Carl Franklin said.

Lee Garrison, of the Fourth Ward, said he felt, as he has since ambulances were originally discussed, that it would be best for ambulance service to be under hospital control, but agreed with Franklin about the cost. He noted, however, that other Missouri cities currently are operating hospital-controlled ambulance services with financial success.

The councilmen indicated a tougher ordinance coupled with a subsidy awarded through competitive bidding would be the eventual method of improving local ambulance service. All agreed that rewriting the ordinance is the first step and work will begin soon on that project, it was reported.

Figures provided the council by Feeback indicated the ambulance service could cost as much as $119,000 a year. However, after subtracting revenue and other income, the total deficit the city would face might be a little more than $48,000, according to Mayor Jones.

"I think it's a realistic figure, based on what we've been told by other hospitals,

Ann Landers

Considers His Nose Beautiful

Dear Ann Landers: You must be kidding. Your advice to "Father Nose Best" could have been a lot better. I have a large nose with a definite hook in it, and the darned thing is beautiful. I can smell with, blow it, scratch it and twitch it when I want to amuse my wife. I can turn it up when I want to show disdain. I can turn it down when I want to appear dejected. I can look down it when I feel the need to appear superior. (Actually, on those occasions I feel inferior.)

My nose is the first thing people see, and it is, I am sure, a cause for wonderment. Sometimes they even laugh. Let them! I don't care! God made me in His image, and I have no complaints.

If that teen-age boy wants to have his nose altered for reasons of vanity I say he should go ahead and do it. But, if he is having social problems and blaming it on his nose, plastic surgery will be a waste of money.

Real folks don't care about the length, breadth or shape of a nose. We all know people who are impressed with good looks and will put up with anything if a gal is gorgeous or a guy is handsome. These flakes aren't worth bothering with, much less having an operation for. So tell it like it is, Ann. — Another Nose Best

Dear A.N.B.: I try to, but sometimes a reader comes along and does it a lot better. Like now. And I thank you, Cyrano.

Dear Ann Landers: That letter signed "102-Per-Cent Mom" made me 102 per cent sick.

What right have parents to get mad when their children are not included in every invitation? A bride has the privilege of deciding whether or not she wants to have kids at her wedding.

I've had first-hand experience with some of those little terrors, described by their parents as "full of pep" and "normally active." And I've seen young children ruin a ceremony and dismantle a buffet table in three minutes flat. They slide and fall on the dance floor, yell and fight, and pester the musicians.

Nothing makes people so mad as when you criticize their children, so you'll probably get a lot of flak from readers who think you're a mean old lady. But I had to write and say I'm on your side, Annie. — Let 'Em Stay Home.

Dear Let 'Em: You'd be surprised at how many parents are on OUR side, and wrote to say so. Thanks for the assist.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 42-year-old career woman (divorced), not a giddy teenager or a desperate widow, so please keep this in mind when you answer.

The man I am dating asked me what I wanted for my birthday. I said, "I'd like to think about it." Then he added, "Let's put a ceiling on it — say $50." I was stunned. Now I wonder if he thinks I'm a gold-digger, or if he's had some bad experiences with acquisitive females. (Or can it be that he is just plain stingy?) What's your best guesstimate, Ann? — No Shrewdy In Shreveport

Dear S.I.S.: He sounds like a practical, hard-nosed businessman who has learned that it's better to prevent a problem than let it happen and then try to fix it. His approach might be somewhat unromantic, but it's straight and honorable and I see nothing to criticize.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity." Send 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.

Legislators Win Suit Challenging Veto Power

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Democratic leaders of the Missouri Legislature were upheld Wednesday in their suit challenging the veto power of Gov. Christopher S. Bond, but it meant losing $96,000 in appropriations for more legislative office space and meeting rooms.

The Missouri Supreme Court held that a governor has the power to eliminate or reduce items in an appropriations bill, but cannot delete wording concerning the purpose for which money is appropriated.

The suit was filed because of language Bond deleted two months ago from an emergency appropriations bill of $16.8 million. Included were the words "west side" from an expenditure for renovations of the capitol.

The Republican governor said he had letters of intent from the appropriations chairmen saying $96,000 was to be spent for the office space and meeting rooms and $1 million for restoration of the crumbling west wall of the capitol. He said his veto would accomplish this purpose.

After the decision was handed down, Bond said it meant he would have to follow the exact wording of the bill, which did not include language for the interior work.

Bond said the administration was not acting in retaliation. "This is part of the problem, he said, smiling. "We must follow the language sent over by the legislature."

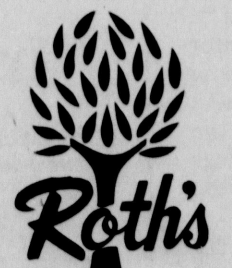

Rep. Richard J. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, the House speaker, said he would work to gain the offices space and meeting rooms in future appropriations. He said it was "small enough sacrifice to uphold the constitutionality of the division of responsibilities in state government."

Weather Service Initiates Flood Warning System

WASHINGTON (AP) — A campaign to encourage widespread use of flash-flood warning devices is being initiated by the National Weather Service.

The announcement was accompanied by a report on testing of the devices which pronounced the trials "markedly successful."

The system includes a float device which would be placed upriver on streams subject to flooding. It rises with the water and sounds alarms which would be placed in police stations and other facilities downstream.

The equipment costs about $3,000, with the expense to be shared by the weather service and the local community. Weather officials said that while in service the devices have given warning of several hours of impending flash flooding. That much of a warning would allow time for evacuation, sandbagging or other activities.

The warning systems have undergone testing at Wheeling, W.Va.; Plainfield, N.J.; Chester, Pa.; Wooster, Ohio; Waynesboro, Va.; Spring City, Tenn., and Rosman, N.C.

Waive Hearings In Local Court

Four persons were bound over for trial to Pettis County Circuit Court Thursday after they waived preliminary hearings in Magistrate Court.

Bound over were Lloyd C. Young, 19; Michael W. Kelley, 18; and John W. Vannatta, 18, all of Independence, on two charges each of armed robbery; and Gary Clark, 18, 1306 West Fifth, charged with second degree burglary and stealing.

Clark is charged with stealing sound equipment March 2 from Trinity Lutheran Church, 3201 Southwest Blvd.

The other three are charged in connection with two February robberies at Leonard's 66 Service Station on South Highway 65 and the Hudson Oil Co. on North Highway 65.

Clark is free on $3,500 bond. The other three remain in the Pettis County jail on $7,000 bond each.

In other action, preliminary hearings for two Sedalians were reset.

The hearing for Edward N. Newbill Jr., 28, 435 West Saline, charged with exhibiting a dangerous weapon, was reset to July 2; and the hearing for Dennis Worthley, 17, 1803 South Washington, charged with stealing more than $50, was rescheduled for Wednesday.

Study Possibility Of Felony In Shooting Case

A rural Sedalia man, Curtis Poort, 44, was being held in the Pettis County jail at 1 p.m. Thursday on a charge of investigation of felonious assault in connection with an incident at 6:15 p.m. Wednesday at the Happy Acres trailer park on North Highway 65.

Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said he and Highway Patrol Trooper Joe Dayringer went to the trailer court after an unidentified caller said he heard screams and gun shots from a trailer.

Fairfax said Poort reportedly fired several shots from a .22 caliber pistol during a "family dispute" with his wife, Vera. County Prosecutor Gary Fleming said Thursday he was still investigating whether a felony had been committed.

Mrs. Poort also was taken to the county jail after the incident, but was released Wednesday night, Fairfax said.

Judge Appointed To Hear Case Here

Cole County Circuit Court Judge James T. Riley has been appointed by the Missouri Supreme Court to hear the civil suit involving Pettis County and County Assessor Jerry Trotter.

The court notified the Pettis County circuit clerk's office Thursday of the appointment. Circuit Court Judge Frank Meyer Tuesday disqualified himself from hearing the case.

The county alleges Trotter owes $3,650 in fees he received for compiling Sedalia's tax assessment records for the 1971-72 fiscal year. In the suit, filed April 30 by Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming, the county maintains the amount should have been turned over by Trotter to the county treasurer.

The court notified the Pettis County circuit clerk's office Thursday of the appointment. Circuit Court Judge Frank Meyer Tuesday disqualified himself from hearing the case.

It reportedly was in those meetings, at least two of which were held in the office of then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, that the eventual plans which led to the Watergate burglary were formulated.

Senate Gives Final Approval on Budgets

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Final legislative approval was given by the Senate today to budgets for public education, the Revenue Department and state offices.

The three 1973-74 appropriations bills now go to the governor.

The result of meetings by a joint conference committee, they total $508.5 million for education, compared with $507.2 million recommended by the governor; $88.3 million for the Revenue Department, $1 million less than the governor recommended; and $712.2 million for most state offices, $4 million more than the governor recommended.

Still to clear the legislature before the midnight Friday deadline are budgets for higher education, welfare, mental health and corrections, and capital improvements.

The Senate agreed today to send the capital improvements bill to a joint House-Senate conference committee. Conference committee reports on the other three bills were awaiting approval in the House.

The Senate approved a conference committee report on a $125.7 million budget for mental health and corrections today after rejecting a House request to return it to a conference committee. The House had rejected the conference report Wednesday.

The House can now either approve the bill or ask that it go back into conference.

The House today passed, and returned to the Senate, two bills to aid in the rehabilitation of persons who have committed misdemeanors.

Rep. Harold Holliday, D-Kansas City, who spoke for the two Senate bills, said they would remove inequities in the rehabilitation of persons convicted of crimes on the local level.

One bill allows those fined for misdemeanors, but financially unable to pay the fines in a lump sum, to pay them in installments. It was amended to exclude those persons who can pay, but are unwilling to pay their fines.

The other bill aids in work release programs on the county level by allowing persons confined for misdemeanors to leave county jails to attend schools, to seek job interviews or hold jobs.

The bill was amended by the House to include second class counties.

The joint House-Senate conference committee on reorganization met again today but made no final decision on the bill attempting to reorganize the executive branch of government.

Several members agreed the conferees are "very close" to approving a bill to take back to each house.

But several key questions have yet to be resolved, and two House members said they would not approve the conference committee substitute without further discussion.

The conferees agreed to resume discussions at 8 p.m. today.

Still at issue are questions concerning the merit system in several divisions, and the matter of environmental agencies now protected from political influence by bipartisan boards or commissions.

Another issue which may involve more debate in the committee is proposed advice and consent for the directors of budget, procurement, and design and construction in the Office of Administration.

The conference committee is expected to resolve these differences before leaving the capitol this week.

On appropriations, several representatives objected to lump sum amounts in the $53.9 million for operation of mental illness programs at five state hospitals and $24.2 million for mental retardation programs.

Rep. Joe Holt, D-Fulton, said that in the past, money earmarked for one hospital had been switched to another hospital without legislative action. The way the bill is written, Holt said, the mental health director could parcel out the money to each hospital as he sees fit.

Most of the $52 million in the Senate capital improvements bill would come from federal revenue sharing. The state now has $41.2 million in the bank from federal revenue sharing.

Several senators failed to restore House appropriations for building group homes cottages at the state hospitals and in restoring $11.5 million for a new wing at the Ellis Fischel Cancer Hospital in Columbia.

Sen. Jasper Brancato, D-Kansas City, added $150,000 for planning money for a performing arts center at the University of Missouri-Kansas City campus. The House had approved 6.4 million for the center.

The House debated a bill to add three circuit judges but took no final action. The bill adds one judge to the St. Louis County circuit, the Jefferson-Washington circuit and the circuit covering Franklin, Osage and Gasconade counties.

Defeated were amendments to add a judge to the circuit covering Greene County, the circuit including Lincoln, Pike and St. Charles counties and the circuit covering Pulaski, Phelps, Texas and Maries counties.

The House approved an emergency clause to a bill allowing imposition of a half-cent sales tax for transportation.

days for more than 12 years on the force.

Uniforms, badges, name plates, new aluminum ladders, first aid equipment and safety equipment for the firefighters.

New furniture for the firehouse.

The proposal said the three-year plan would cost the county $22,070 the first year and $15,676 a year for the next two years.

"We, the members of Local 2228, are the lowest paid employees of any department in Pettis County earning $396 per month for 31 1/2 hours of duty," the proposal stated.

"We are making $1.28 per hour, 32 cents below minimum wage scale. At present wages we make $4,752 per year, which is $2,448 below the minimum standard acceptable for a family of four prepared by the U.S. Bureau of Labor."

The proposal also said that "timely and informal meetings with the court to discuss our problems and needs" will help alleviate the "low morale."

The judges of the court Thursday had no comment concerning the eight-step plan.

Brandt In Jerusalem For Visit

JERUSALEM (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt arrived today for an emotional and symbolic visit as the first German government chief to set foot in the Jewish state.

About 40 youths demonstrated against Germany's Nazi past outside the heavily guarded Lod Airport as Brandt's air force jet landed. Premier Golda Meir met the plane, visibly moved.

As armed police and troops guarded against attempted disruptions, Brandt began his stay with an immediate reference to the wartime Nazi persecution of Jews.

He declared that "the sum of the suffering and the horror cannot be removed from the consciousness of our peoples."

But Brandt, said he was confident his presence would improve the special relations between Israel and Germany and he hoped it "will serve the cause of peace in the Middle East."

Mrs. Meir praised Brandt's anti-Nazi remarks and said his visit "undoubtedly will be of major importance."

The first event on his four-day schedule was aimed at further healing of the wounds of World War II: a stop at the Yad Vashem memorial to the six million Jews liquidated under the Nazis.

Rugged frontier police units were pulled into Jerusalem to guard Brandt's hotel from possible attacks by Jews who have never forgiven the Germans for the Nazi holocaust.

An estimated 300,000 survivors of the Hitler era live in Israel—nearly one out of every 10 citizens. Half of them spent time in Nazi concentration camps.

Many Israelis thought they would never see the day when Jewish Jerusalem would be bedecked with the black, red and gold German flag or hear the German national anthem played here.

Brandt is to meet twice with Premier Golda Meir and with Foreign Minister Abba Eban. Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir and Deputy Premier Yigal Allon. In addition to the Middle East question, they were likely to take up Israeli relations with the Common Market.

Brandt climaxes his visit at a meeting Sunday with 86-year-old elder statesman David Ben-Gurion, who broke the ice between Israel and West Germany more than two decades ago.

Reconciliation began in the 1950s, when Ben-Gurion encouraged contacts with the late West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on reparations for Nazi crimes.

In 1960, after a famous meeting with Adenauer in a New York hotel, Ben-Gurion stunned Israelis by saying: "The Germany of today is not the Germany of yesterday."

Brandt recently criticized Communist East Germany's position that it has no legal obligation to pay reparations to Israeli victims of Nazism. But reports from Bonn said West Germany has no desire to intervene in this issue. The Bonn government has paid $16.6 billion to Jews since World War II.

Refuses to Detail Fund Expenditures

The Pettis County Court decided Thursday how it will spend approximately $200,000 of federal revenue sharing money it will receive this year but declined to release detailed information on the budget until Friday.

The court already has committed about $150,000 of the funds for reassessment of the county.

Presiding Judge Harry Walch said the spending decisions would be made public after it is typed by County Clerk Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson and signed by the three court judges.

Also attending the budget meeting were Mrs. Wilson and County Treasurer Virgil Houchens.

Shuler to Resign

GOP Committee Job

Dr. Ronald L. Shuler, currently treasurer of the Pettis County Republican Committee, indicated Thursday he will resign from the post in order to retain his newly-appointed position on the police personnel board.

City statutes prohibits personnel board members from being involved in partisan politics. It was earlier suggested that Shuler might be forced to vacate his personnel board post because of the conflict. Shuler said Thursday he chose to retain his personnel board position "because it is an appointment by the mayor and as such is a great honor. Also," he said, "I'm looking forward to working with the other members of the board and actively participating in city government."

Shuler and James Rice were named to the board at a meeting Tuesday night.

Reception Planned For Sen. Eagleton

A reception for Sen. Thomas Eagleton will be held between 1 and 2:30 p.m. June 16 at the Bothwell Hotel, Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Thursday.

The public is invited to meet the senator at that time, Fairfax said. The event is being organized by Sheriff and Mrs. Fairfax.

Eagleton will speak later that evening at Warrensburg, Fairfax added.

New York Banks Boost Prime Rates

NEW YORK (AP) — Some major New York banks today announced boosts in their prime lending rates to 7 1/2 per cent in a sign that the higher lending charge was becoming industrywide.

Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest, and Chemical Bank, No. 6, both announced immediate 1/4 per cent hikes in their minimum lending charge to large corporate borrowers.

This follows prime rate hikes by a number of smaller banks Wednesday.

Dollar Moves Up While Gold Slumps

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar moved up smartly in European exchanges today in expectation of early action by Washington to curb inflation and bolster President Nixon's prestige. The price of gold slumped.

Dealers described trade in both the exchanges and bullion markets as calm but active.

Financial authorities welcomed Nixon's appointment of former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Gen. Alexander M. Haig to strengthen his administration.

Laird's news conference statement that antidollar speculators were "making a grave effort and will live to regret it" was headlined widely.

Harrow Stolen

Earl Gregory, Route 1, Houstonia, told the Pettis County Sheriff's Department Wednesday his three-section harrow had been taken from a field east of Houstonia. Gregory said the harrow, valued at about $275, was taken between May 28-30.

Jeff Edwards, 2611 Stevenson, told Sedalia police at 11:07 p.m. Wednesday that someone had stolen 13 stereo tape cartridges from his car while it was parked near the Fox Theater. No estimate was given regarding the value of the stolen tapes.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House Chief of Staff H. R. Haldeman has indicated he may have known before the Watergate burglary that political wiretapping and espionage had been discussed at high-level campaign strategy meetings.

In fact, Haldeman says, he may have known about the meetings while they were going on.

It reportedly was in those meetings, at least two of which were held in the office of then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, that the eventual plans which led to the Watergate burglary were formulated.

State GOP May Select New Leader

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Republicans will meet here Saturday and may pick a new state chairman.

State GOP Chairman Richard L. Berkley of Kansas City said Wednesday he plans to resign. He cited business and personal reasons. His wife is ill.

Several names were discussed in the capitol this week as to who would succeed Berkley.

Among them is George Parker, director of business and administration.

Parker said Wednesday he would accept the job only if it becomes a full-time paid position.

Parker, a former state representative from Columbia, will lose his present job this year when the office he heads is phased out.

He said he has not campaigned for the party job.

"Some funds would have to be raised or some concrete assurances of the salary provided before I would consider the job," Parker said.

The last fulltime paid chairman was in 1964, he said.

Parker says that is the only way to run a political party.

He says all the states that have well organized parties have either full-time paid directors or chairmen.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond, the state's leading Republican, said he will announce his favorite sometime before the state committee meeting Saturday.

Others being mentioned as possible candidates for the job include Kansas City lawyer Stanley Christopher and Albert Rendlen Sr. of Hannibal, recently named by Bond to the Northeast Missouri State University Board of Regents.

'Wet' Describes the Current Plight of Farmers In Midwest

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

"In a word: it's wet," said Jim Bell, surveying his 1,300 acre farm near Bloomington, Ill.

"This week we've had 4½ inches of rain, and the other night there was a gully washer."

Bell's problem is common among farmers throughout the Midwest. First there was the Mississippi River flooding, then there were tornadoes and torrential rains over the Memorial Day weekend; now there's more rain.

Town Nearly Wiped Out By Flooding

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — The record flood of 1973 has done its worst to Mississippi and Missouri river communities, but not to the extent of the damage to Kampville Beach, Mo.

None of the 60 residents of the unincorporated town in St. Charles County have returned since being forced from their homes March 10 by the flooding Missouri River.

"There's quite a few who won't go back if they can get relocated," said Norman Jaspering, St. Charles County circuit clerk.

Jaspering said he was unsure if he would reopen his grocery store in Kampville Beach, located about eight miles northwest of St. Charles.

"The water wasn't ever nearly as bad as this year. It must have been six or seven feet deep around most houses," he said.

Most of the town's residents are living in apartments in St. Charles.

Everyone agrees that planting is behind schedule because of the weather. They disagree, however, over whether farmers can catch up and produce the record yields the Agriculture Department has predicted and whether there will be any effect on food prices.

Gregory Blaska, a Marshall, Wis., dairyman, said he has been unable to plant 10 per cent of his 400-acre crop because of bad weather. He said other farmers were selling some of their cows in expectation of poor crops.

"If there is a shortage of feed supplies as a result of the wet spring, then there definitely are going to be higher prices," said Joseph Wankel, a dairy farmer from Plain, Wis.

Don Paarberg, director of economics for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said on May 20 that he thought farmers could catch up on planting and predicted the weather would have little impact on food prices, providing there was no additional flooding.

Francis A. Kutish, an aide to Paarberg, said earlier this week that the department stood by its predictions. "Farmers have pretty well caught up in their corn planting, although they're a little behind a year ago," he said.

The department said that, by June 3, about 84 per cent of the corn crop in the Corn Belt was planted, compared with 90 per cent at the same time last year. Soybean planting was 43 per cent complete on June 3, compared with 72 per cent last year. Soybeans, which take about 90 days to mature compared with 120 days for corn, can be planted until the middle of June, although some farmers claim the yield decreases if the crop is planted after June 10.

Cotton farmers in Arkansas were particularly hard hit by rain and tornadoes on May 27. Some said they would switch to soybeans, a plus for the consumer since soybeans are used in livestock food.

There were problems, however. The farmers reported that soybeans to plant were costing them more this year, and some said they had already prepared their fields with herbicides for cotton and therefore couldn't switch.

Commodity Loan Fee Increase Is Announced

The fees collected by all county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Services on commodity loans for the 1973 crop year will be higher, it was learned recently.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced the fee increases and explained they are necessary to "keep fees more nearly in line with the actual cost of processing commodity loans." Collection rates have not changed in several years, USDA officials pointed out, while such county office costs as salaries and travel have steadily increased.

For grains and similarly handled commodities, fees for farm storage loans are increased from a flat charge of $8 per loan to $10 per loan for quantities up to 2,000 bushels or hundredweight; $10 per loan plus one-half cent per bushel or 1 cent per hundredweight for each bushel or hundredweight over 2,000 bushels or hundredweight, not to exceed $25 per loan. Fees for warehouse storage loans are increased from a flat charge of $4 per loan to a charge of $6 per loan with a single receipt plus $1 for each additional receipt.

'Healthy' Financial Status Seen

The Sedalia Water Department Board was told Wednesday night that its financial statement for the fiscal year ending March 31 showed a "healthy" status.

Harry Hempy, representing Haskins & Sells, a Kansas City auditing firm, presented an auditor's report to the board and said the department had done a good job in keeping expenses under control.

The firm also sent a letter urging the department to obtain written instead of oral agreement with various groups leasing space at the city-owned building housing the Water Department at 111 West Fourth.

The letter urged "formalizing the terms and delineating the respective responsibilities of the parties as to maintenance and repairs, insurance, etc."

Statistics for the 1972-73 fiscal year showed the water department pumped a total of just over one billion gallons of water, an increase of nearly 100 million gallons over last year. Good maintenance was given as the reason for reducing the percentage of lost water per thousand gallons from about 9 per cent during 1971-72 to just over 6 per cent for the last 12 months ending March 31.

Revenue from the sale of water during the fiscal year was $709,601, an increase of about 5½ per cent over last year, it was reported.

Disclosure vs. Prosecution In Senate Watergate Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the dispute over the Senate's continuing Watergate hearings, the central issue is one of competing priorities: immediate disclosure on one hand, prosecution and punishment on the other.

Investigating senators, now in their eighth day of televised hearings, put the emphasis on swift public testimony about political espionage operations and coverup efforts.

Archibald Cox, the special prosecutor who unsuccessfully sought a postponement of those hearings, stresses punishment of the guilty. And the wheels of prosecution turn slowly.

Neither side contends that the two aims are mutually exclusive, although Cox has raised the prospect that because of public testimony now, guilty men might go free later.

So the question becomes who goes first, prosecutors in private or senators in public. The answer for now is senators.

But Cox, denied an outright postponement, now seeks a federal court order to close the doors of the Senate hearings when potentially incriminating testimony is taken.

As an alternative, if that is not granted, Cox asked that such testimony not be broadcast or televised.

His court move Wednesday raises the possibility that when some of the biggest names in the affair appear before the committee, it will be in private, or off the air.

What Cox asked was that when witnesses who might become defendants are questioned, it be in executive session or under rules similar to those that apply in a courtroom.

If the Cox request is granted, it would affect the appearances of major figures in the case, among them such men as former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III, and Jeb Stuart Magruder, once deputy director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Cox originally had asked that the hearings be put off for 90 days, saying that would help him get at the truth and safeguard later prosecutions. In his new request to the court, he said the continued hearings raise a danger of impeding his investigation and generating pre-trial publicity which might "prevent bringing to justice those guilty of serious offenses in high government office."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate committee, said in resuming the hearings over Cox's objection that his panel did not share the fear of the guilty going free because of its inquiry.

Ervin said long before the hearings began that it seemed to him more important to tell the nation what happened than to send people to jail.

Named

Miss Kay Kletchka, Townhouse Manor, recently was named bookmobile librarian at Boonslick Regional Library, according to Richard Parker, Boonslick administrative librarian. Miss Kletchka, a native of Horton, Kan., attended Kansas State University and received a master's degree in library science from the University of Missouri, Columbia. She will be in charge of bookmobile operation, circulating and scheduling in the three-county region served by the library.

Police Probing Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say they are trying to learn the circumstances surrounding the death of oil executive George Franklin Getty II, eldest son of billionaire J. Paul Getty.

Police said, however, there was no immediate evidence to indicate foul play in the death of the 48-year-old executive vice president of Getty Oil Co.

Getty, chief operations officer of the firm, was admitted to Queen of Angels Hospital Wednesday morning suffering from a chest injury. He died Wednesday afternoon.

A spokesman for Getty Oil said Getty died of a cerebral hemorrhage, but police investigators said they were awaiting results of an autopsy planned today before determining the cause of death.

Police Lt. Charles Kline said Getty was admitted to the hospital by his physician, Dr. Kendrick Smith, under the name of George S. Davis. Smith told officers the alias was used to avoid publicity.

Kline said Getty apparently suffered the injury at his suburban Bel Air home Tuesday night but refused to say what caused the injury.

The Los Angeles Times said the wound may have been caused by a knife.

Needed Battery For Hearing Aid

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — John Astargabma, 27, pleaded guilty to breaking into a store to steal a battery for his hearing aid.

But because he still had no battery, Astargabma was unable to hear when he appeared in court Wednesday.

So Circuit Court Judge John Santora wrote out his sentence of one year's probation on a slip on paper.

Who, Where, What, When...Why ?

Who comes to mind in discussions of press credibility? You, our readers, that's who. Where is credibility mandatory? In these pages, that's where. When? Every day.

Why? Because this newspaper's mission is to help you open a window to the world with factual, balanced and meaningful information you can depend on.

"Press credibility" is nothing new. It's been our business for a very long time...and it's been the business of our news cooperative, The Associated Press, for 125 years.

We're a member of The AP, world's largest news-gathering organization, and AP newsmen and newsmen go far for factual, on-the-scene reports.

One AP man, Mark Kellogg, went all the way to the Little Big Horn River, in 1876, with Gen. George Armstrong Custer—and Kellogg didn't come back, either.

That's just one indication of how long "press credibility" has been important to newspapermen.

IRS Claims Four Local Auto Dealers Broke Price Hike Law

Four Sedalia car agencies, along with 385 other dealerships across the state, have been cited by the Internal Revenue Service for alleged violations regarding price increases in auto parts and accessories.

The local firms included on the list of violators are Bill Greer Motors, Inc., Town and Country Motors, Pat O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick-GMC Co., and Routsong-Malmo Motors Inc.

The violations, it was explained by A. W. McCanless, district IRA director, stemmed from an approved raise in the price of auto parts and accessories of 2.5 per cent for GM and 3.1 for Ford. This raise, approved by the Federal Price Commission in December, 1971, took effect for Ford on Dec. 31, 1971, and for General Motors on Jan. 3, 1972.

The violations resulted, McCanless said, when the dealers repriced their existing inventories to include the increases. The Ford and GM dealers that had increased their prices were required to return the over-charged amount to the market place by discounting current sales of parts and accessories.

Area Ford Motor Co. dealers named in the announcement were: Crane Ford, Lexington; Elmer Hare Ford Sales, Marshall; Eaton Motors, Inc., Warsaw; Fraiser Ford, Sweet Springs; R. C. Evans, Eldon; Glen Sullivan Ford Sales, Slater; Jerry Talley Motors, Warrensburg; Meyer Motor, Concordia; Todd Hogge, Inc., California; Versailles Motor Co., Versailles; Walker Motor Co., Clinton; and Ziems Motor Co., Higginsville.

Area GM dealers cited included: Burlingame Pontiac-Buick, Eldon; Berry Chevrolet, Sweet Springs; Bob Adams Motors, Inc., Warrensburg; Durham Chevrolet Co., Warsaw; Embury Chevrolet Co., Tipton; Gilliam Chevrolet Inc., Slater; Hulet Chevrolet, Camdenton; Hainen Buick GMC, Tipton; Hunter-Bornan Motor Co., Versailles; Lenger Chevrolet-Cadillac, Inc., Warrensburg; Mason Motor Co., Lexington; McMillen Chevrolet Co., Holden; Rinne Chevrolet-Olds Co., Higginsville.

Stayton Chevrolet-Cadillac Inc., Clinton; Ted's Auto Exchange, Marshall; Tompkins Chevrolet Co. Inc., Eldon; and Walkenhorst Motor Co. Inc., Concordia.

McCanless stated that the IRS is continuing to verify that refunds totaling $330,827.21 ($182,864.27 for General Motors and $147,962.94 for Ford) have been made by the dealers.

Term Accused Killer Sexual Psychopath

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The accused killer of two Kansas City women, William T. Stitt, 35, has been found to be a sexual psychopath under the law, and ordered to the state hospital at Fulton.

Stitt is accused of stabbing Mrs. Gloria Schuler in a Kansas City laundromat Jan. 26, 1972, and stabbing Mrs. Joan R. Merritt, 33, as she was entering her car in Independence Jan. 13, 1971.

Stitt was committed to the state hospital by Judge Keith P. Bondurant.

Motorcycle Rider Killed In Accident

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — Bruce B. Englehoft, 21, of Liberty, was killed late Wednesday night when his motorcycle struck a guard rail on Interstate 35.

Investigating officers said Englehoft's vehicle left 125-feet of skid marks and was found on the roadway 120-feet from his body.

Witnesses said the vehicle appeared to swerve out of control of no apparent reason and struck a steel guard rail.

Young Boy Runs Away

KANSAS CITY (AP) — James Harvey Bessent left home May 30 at the age of 10.

Some young friends reported seeing him walking near 39th and State Line late Wednesday afternoon. They said he ran when they recognized him.

Young Bessent left home carrying two pocket knives, some fish hooks and line.

He left, said Ray Bessent, 23, a brother with whom he lived, because Ray Bessent had threatened to punish him over an incident at school.

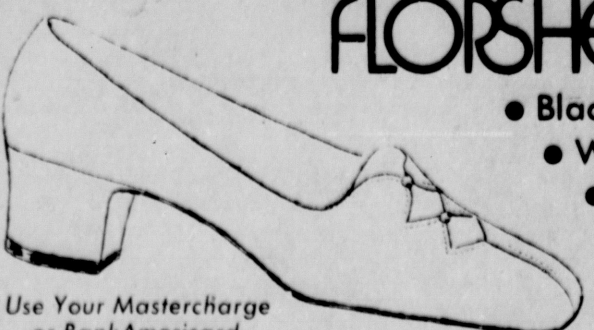

"I told him if I got a letter from school," Bessent said, "I was just going to flat bust him."

The day the letter came, he took off."

The boy told friends he was going fishing in Olathe, but his family believes the youth may be "living off the land" near the University of Kansas Medical Center.

Ray Bessent said James and another brother and a sister had lived with him for about a year. Their father died several years ago and their mother was killed in a car accident two years ago.

Meanwhile, police, family, friends and neighbors continue to search for James, a boy who was afraid of the dark and spiders.

Picking up report cards didn't seem to be of main concern to Kathi Ferguson, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Ferguson, Route 5, or Cheri Means, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Means, Route 5. Sixth-graders at Jefferson Elementary school, the two girls rode an estimated 15 to 20 miles Friday before collecting their annual reports. Jim Harmon, a junior at Smith-Cotton, joined Cheri for the ride. He is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Harmon, 311 East Jackson.

Student Reports

Sarah Marian Robinson, 34 Town House Manor; Sherry Lou Arni, Mary Denise Gaddy, and Nancy G. Gibson, all of Marshall, were recently initiated into Kappa Delta Pi honorary society at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Members place in the top 15 per cent of their class and are education majors.

Joseph F. Dolecki recently received a masters of arts degree in economics at the Washington State University, Pullman, Wash.

Richard C. Hubbell, son of Mrs. Betty K. Fletcher, Route 4, graduated from Creighton University, Omaha, Neb., with a bachelor of science degree in business administration.

Bill Meacham, grandson of Mrs. Verda McCarty, 1501 South Brown, received a complete two year academic scholarship at Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg. He recently completed his second year at Wentworth Military Academy, Lexington.

Vicky Faiola, 63 Huntington Ave., has received an academic scholarship from Evangel College, Springfield. She plans to major in psychology.

Deborah Hopkins has been awarded a Founders Scholarship by Culver-Stockton College, Canton. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hopkins, 1009 West 10th, she received the scholarship due to high academic grades.

Named to the dean's list of Tarkio College, Tarkio, was Nancy Rumpf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Rumpf, LaMonte.

Nilda Griffiths, daughter of Doris Odell, 404 East Nineteenth, recently graduated from Atlantic Airline School, Kansas City.

Constance Lynn Hawley, 2320 West Fifth, achieved a distinguished student rank for the spring semester at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind.

Mark G. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Hall, 1321 West Broadway, received a bachelor of science degree for industrial engineering from the College of Engineering, University of Missouri-Columbia.

Catherine Lou Moore will graduate 7:30 p.m. Friday from the Burge School of Nursing at the Central Assembly of God Church, Springfield.

This summer she will be employed at Bothwell Hospital.

Darro D. Byrd, 114 East Cooper, was named to the dean's list of Lincoln University, Jefferson City.

To qualify a full-time student must maintain a B average.

Danette M. Grotzinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kroeze, Route 3, was named to the president's list for the 1972-73 school year at Oral Roberts University, Tulsa, Okla.

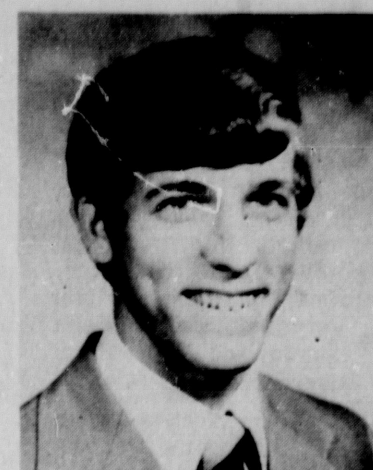

Natural Blush

A dry sponge helps give a natural look to blushers. Whether it's gel, cream or powdered cheek color, once you've applied the make-up on the cheekbone, the dry sponge will blend the make-up so well it looks like your own blush.

Eye Tricks

To call more attention to the eyes try some new color tricks. Use an overliner very close to the lashes and an underliner underneath in a slightly lighter shade. Experiment with some of the pastels, but be sure to keep the lines thin and subtle.

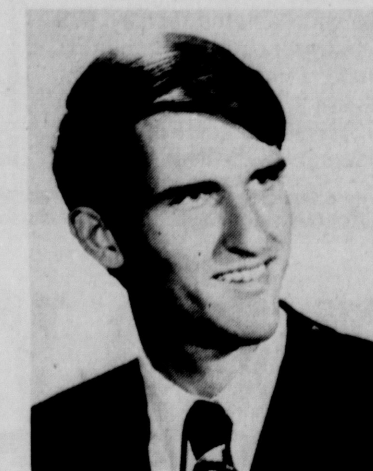

Valedictorian, Salutatorian Chosen

Wayne Simon

Teresa Colflesh

Steven Cooper

Area students selected for highest and second highest academic honors for the 1973 senior classes were announced recently at commencement exercises for their respective high schools. Students selected are chosen on the basis of academic records for their entire high school careers.

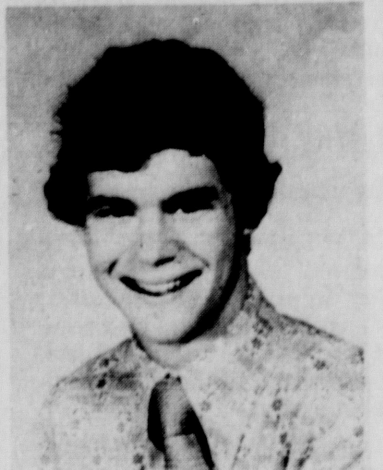

Wayne Simon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Simon, LaMonte, was named valedictorian for the 1973 Sacred Heart High School senior class. Salutatorian was Joyce Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Cook, 404 East 11th. Both will attend State Fair Community College this fall. Each received a Board of Regent's Scholarship to Central Missouri State University and Wayne was awarded the Trustee's Scholarship to State Fair Community College.

Smith-Cotton High School named Teresa Colflesh, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Wayne E. Colflesh, 1712 South Montauk, valedictorian, and David Rayl, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rayl, 2342 West Second, salutatorian. Teresa will attend Central College, McPherson, Kan., where she received the Richardson Competitive Scholarship. David will attend Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, Ind., with academic and music scholarships. He was also named a national merit finalist.

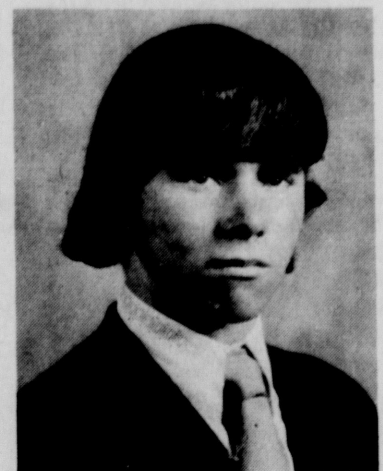

Frederick George Beard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Beard, Knob Noster, and Steven Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cooper, Knob Noster, were named valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, for Knob Noster High School. Each received Board of Regent's scholarships to Central Missouri State University.

AFS Exchange Student

Summer Destination Is Turkey

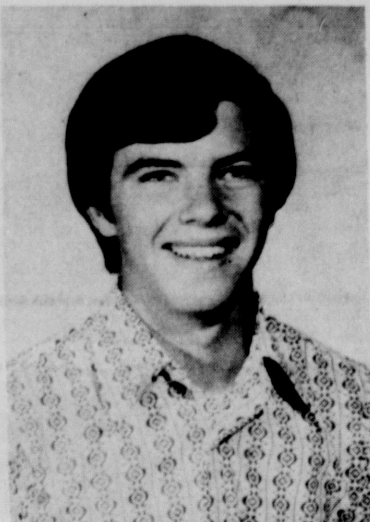

By DENISE GROTZINGER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

On June 25, Bill Buchholtz, a junior from Smith-Cotton High School, will board a plane in New York and fly to Istanbul, Turkey. The American Field Service exchange student for 1973, he is the son of Mrs. Grace Buchholtz, 1320 West Fourth, and was selected to spend 10 weeks in Istanbul, Eniri, Cad., a city with about 50,000 inhabitants.

"I won't be attending school while I'm over there," Bill said. "I guess it will be pretty much like summer vacation at home except that I'll be able to do sight seeing that I can't usually do."

About ten students applied for the American Field Service summer representative position this past fall. Each completed a paper telling about themselves and why they should be the representative. Interviews, numerous forms and recommendations followed with all information concerning two area semifinalists being sent to the AFS international office. Bill was selected by the service from these semifinalists. Mrs. Bruce Whittier, a member of the American Association of University Women, reported. The AAUW is the sponsor of all the Field Service exchange students from Sedalia.

"The service tries to match the family up," Mrs. Whittier said. "They attempt to find a home with a son or daughter the approximate age of the exchange student."

According to information he has received, Bill will be staying with Mr. and Mrs. Resat Avci. He will have one brother, Rafat, 17, and two sisters, Filiz, 14, and Figen, 7. Rafat and Filiz are the only members of the family reported to understand and speak English.

Other information is sketchy up to this point, Bill reports. A book of phrases and a little information about his "family" is all the information he really has.

"I expect more information before I leave," Bill remarked. "If not I'll have to rely on the crash course they have scheduled for the first three days at Istanbul."

"I haven't had time to really study what they have already sent me," he added. "For the past two weeks I have been studying for my final exams."

Bill is presently preparing for the trip by getting the required shots, locating his passport and packing. To combat the reported "extremely hot" weather, he intends to wear the typical American summer costume, tee shirts and shorts.

Concert Scheduled With Natty Bumpo, Parchment Farm

Parchment Farm, a melodic rock group from St. Louis, and Natty Bumpo, a four member local band, will present a concert at 9 p.m. Saturday at the National Guard Armory.

A new vaudeville production, Parchment Farm is currently on a Midwest Tour and recently appeared with the Rare Earth, Hollies and Canned Heat.

Parchment Farm consists of four members, Paul Cockrum, guitar; Robert Williams, bass; Mike Scott, keyboard-flute; and Mike Lusher, percussion.

Natty Bumpo is made up of John Neimeyer, drums; Tom Martin, guitar; Tom Robinson, bass; and Dani Axis Gray, guitar; and will open the program with an hour show.

Complete Scholarship Awarded To Smith-Cotton Graduate

Miss Donna L. Talbott

Miss Donna L. Talbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Talbott, 1308 South Kentucky, has been awarded an all expense paid scholarship for the Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing Program. Her application was one of 150 chosen nationwide from 7,000 applicants, according to Sgt. I.C. Lee Cutshall of the Sedalia army recruiting office who assisted her with her application.

The scholarship includes full tuition, fees and books, plus over $300 a month expense money for the full four years. She will then complete three years of active duty for the army.

This fall Miss Talbott will begin studies at the University of Missouri. Her junior year she will attend the University of Maryland where she will receive her bachelor of arts degree in nursing and be commissioned a first lieutenant in the U.S. Army Nurse Corps.

Miss Talbott was the president of the national honor society, president of the German club and was a member of the school band, medical careers club, spiz, tiger tales and the Latin club before graduating from Smith-Cotton High School on May 31.

Cook Aids Little Girl

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP) — Benjamin Brown, 20, was riding a rapid transit car to his job as a cook at a restaurant here when a man rushed up shouting, "Doctor, doctor, come quick!"

Brown, who was wearing a white coat, protested: "Wait a minute. I'm no doctor. I'm a..."

"No time for explanations," the man interrupted. "A little girl is sick in the next car."

"What could I do?" Brown said Wednesday, recalling Tuesday's incident. "I just followed him and saw a girl about 6 years old on the floor of the car and her mother leaning over her crying for help."

Again Brown tried to explain he was a cook, but all the mother said was, "Please help her."

So Brown knelt and began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation he had learned in a high school first aid course.

"I've never been so nervous," said Brown. "I was even shaking. I was blowing and hoping."

The little girl revived and snuggled into the arms of her mother, who barely had time to thank Brown before he left the train to go to work.

Challenges Traditional Practices

By EVE SHARBUITT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bette Clemens is a consumer advocate in the heart of big business.

She is director of consumer affairs for the Council of Better Business Bureaus, Inc. (CBBB), in Washington, D.C.

"I visit national corporations, work with consumer groups and try to establish new programs and consumer councils in cities across the nation," the pretty blonde said in an interview here.

"And I make speeches, always. I try to explain some of the things business must do to restore consumer confidence," Miss Clemens added.

Before she joined the CBBB, Miss Clemens was director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Consumer Protection.

She sees the new job as a challenge, and is proud of pilot projects initiated this year.

"We hired consumer specialists in seven cities to administer new programs and set up councils to work with businesses. We put out a consumer buying guide, newsletters, do voluntary shopping surveys and work with telephone canvassing. We try to get businesses and consumers involved," she added.

Arbitration is a new method being used in 52 Better Business Bureau cities throughout the nation.

"It started in the Long Island bureau," Miss Clemens said. "The builder of three carpools went into arbitration after the structures collapsed in the first snow. There was no way to prove fraud, so the bureau tried arbitration. It worked. We ask businesses now to pre-commit to arbitration through either the bureau or an outsider. We give them a symbol we've developed to use in non-permanent advertising after they agree to arbitrate."

Miss Clemens said most complaints from consumers today are about automobiles. They are, she says, the second most expensive thing most people buy, so that's natural.

"But the biggest fraud on consumers is diet scheme dishonesty," she added.

"The post office has just taken action against one man who sold a bathing solution for $19.95 a gallon. He said four drops in bath water once a week would cause customers to lose 48 pounds in a month."

"When I received the complaint, I called the woman to ask her if she had really believed the scheme would work. She told me 'When you're fat, you'll try anything.' And there are many people trying to be slim, young and beautiful. They agree with her.

"When the post office first checked the box number to which requests for the diet scheme were to be mailed, they discovered that $9,000 a day was going into the box. They filed an injunction, put a hold on the mail. When the judge ruled it was fraud, the mail was stamped 'FRAUD' and returned to the senders," she said.

Miss Clemens says consumers should remember to write the company to ask for documentation of advertising claims before they buy.

"There's no device, for example, to make you lose weight. No cream or liquid will make fat disappear. You must cut calories, exercise and eat a balanced diet," she added.

Miss Clemens says consumers also need to learn the cost of credit, shopping for it as they would for anything else.

One way in which the CBBB is helping consumers is with mobile vans in neighborhoods. In Washington, D.C., for example, a van works in the inner city showing films and discussing consumer education. The van operator takes complaints and returns them to the main office to be processed. And it tells people what the Better Business Bureaus are all about.

"There are shoppers and there are buyers," Miss Clemens said. One of our goals is teaching people the difference, saving them money by differentiating between what they want and what they really need."

Auxiliary Presents Check to Hospital

The Bothwell Hospital Auxiliary presented the hospital a check for $1,000 at their annual meeting Sunday at the Tiki House on the Parkhurst Farm.

Don Feeback, administrator, accepted the check on behalf of the hospital, indicating that it would be placed in the gifts and donations account for building, equipment and furnishings in the new hospital addition.

Mrs. Fred Davis was elected president of the auxiliary for the 1973-74 year and Mrs. David Moore was elected first vice president. Mrs. J. Bartley will serve as secretary while Mrs. Jack Blackwell will be treasurer. Elected to the board for a three year term is Mrs. Robert Gardner and Mrs. Richard Dean will serve on the board for a one-year term.

Feeback installed the officers and presented service awards to auxiliary members and teen volunteers.

Mrs. Claude Lambirth was recognized for serving the hospital over 800 hours; Mrs. Barbara Howe, over 400 hours; Mrs. Fred Lange, over 300 hours; Mrs. John Bopp, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Lola Potts, 200 hours; Mrs. Ray Jiedel and Mrs. Glenn King, 100 hours; and Mrs. Clyde Bechtel, 25 hours.

Teen volunteers who have accumulated more than 100 hours of service are Miss Becky Keuck, Mrs. Kay Lukacs, Marjorie Aldrich, Debbie Landreth, Bambi Freeman, Debbie Lilly, Cathy Ford and Melissa Ramseyer.

Polly's Pointers

Use These Pointers To Patch Wallboard

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. J. S. wanted to know how to patch a large hole in wallboard. Cut a piece of screen wire 1 to 1½ inches larger than the hole. It is flexible, will bend and can be positioned back of the hole. Run a string through the middle four ways and firmly tape to the outside of the wall. Mix patching plaster and very gently apply a light coat over the screen wire and let dry. Repeat and find three coats will probably cover a four-inch hole. I did this 15 years ago and it still holds. No one but me knows where the patch is. Each buildup of plaster has to dry thoroughly and this is done until it is even with the wall surface. The screen wire is the secret.

— PEARL

DEAR POLLY — My beef or Pet Peeve is with the manufacturers of dust mops, brooms, wet mops and even wands on vacuum cleaners, who must think all women are dwarfs. The handles get shorter and shorter and one has to work in a bent over or crouch position. I am only 5-foot-3 and they are too short for me. I wonder what the tall ladies think of this? — M. H.

Mansion Decorated to Benefit Boys' Club

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A mansion is likely to be nothing more than a building with more rooms than the ordinary house, in spite of awe stirred by the word.

It's how it is decorated that counts, as observed in viewing a decorator show house in Manhattan, the 50-or-so-room Park Avenue mansion of the late Gerrish Milliken. The house is open to the public for the benefit of the Kips Bay Boys' Club.

Nineteen interior designers invited to participate in decorating the rooms of the show house were not restricted to a theme. They went all-out in their ideas for graphics, fabric, paint, even painting interesting patterns on the floors and ceilings. Truckloads of furniture were moved in, much of it slipcovered and upholstered to carry out the decorating scheme of the rooms. Many things were for sale.

At the finish line, the ladies' committee was in a state of exhilaration and exhaustion as their five months of work neared a fruitful end. "I don't think I've worked so hard in my life," said Mrs. Charles Hollerith Jr., head of the ladies' committee, as she directed workmen, photographers and delivery men in last minute arrangements. The committee hopes to raise enough money to build an Olympic-sized swimming pool for the boys' club.

There are many ideas in the showcase home for the decorator. For example:

Ellen McCluskey used a mirror-like material on the ceiling to make a morning room look far larger. It reflected not only a wrought iron fencing, but the interesting wall treatment — a painted graphic in gray, black, pink and white and a white metal Victorian settee. Real-looking life-size lambs were to sit on, but they were priced in tune with current meat prices — high, but very.

David Barrett did his usual innovative thing, turning a somber, utilitarian city kitchen into a countrified atmosphere with a few sparks of intrigue — color and some homey touches. An immense room with its huge black stove, painted vegetables and fruits over the sink, it featured a painted rug in a zig-zag pattern with fringe and tassels on the floor. A freehand painting of a cat and a broom was near the floor on a wall. The long harvest table and lots of plants and wooden bowls filled with fruit gave the kitchen a lift.

Priscilla Gillon Ulmann may have answered the question of what to do with that big old oil table, as she did, and the cover will be removable when you want to play a game. Although the room she decorated had been a game room, addition of the top was a decorating coup. The walls were painted burgundy and racing prints and horse prints were placed around the room. A Tibetan multicolored rug provided the floor accent.

George Clarkson's bright white party dining room had a number of small see-through tables, a jute-type carpet of black and white tweedy squares, and a large, modern sculpture that resembled twisted white inner tubes.

A handsome bedroom decorated by John Cronin and Stephen Stempler was a many-patterned, lively, imaginative room and sleepable in spite of it all. Wall-canopied beds were covered in a striking orange and blue Chinese patterned chintz designed by Brunswick, tortoise bamboo shades were at the windows and arm chairs were covered in white with blue. Floors were painted in an "undulating" motif of brown, tan and white against pale mustard.

Sandra Merriman decorated a 30ish bedroom for a young girl, with a bed on a platform and white curtains that ballooned out in puffy tiers for an unusual effect. Walls were covered in gray velvet.

Even the staircase had been painted. The marbled effect brought compliments from workmen who had watched the speedy transformation.

"It was just painted black and some greyish green dabbed on," said a carpenter admiringly.

The walled-in backyard gardens were completely planted for the occasion by Roy Porter with ageratum, marigolds, lupin, roses, set among trees and bushes for an instant garden that brought praise from the caretaker, Alex Starin.

"I think the Millikens might have been amazed at the speed with which you can get a garden in spring," he said. "I was really flabbergasted."

Club Note

The Missouri Pacific Women's Club closed their year with a contributive supper Monday at the Missouri State Bank attended by 19 members and seven guests.

Hosting the event were Mrs. M. H. Shelby, Mrs. W. J. Hargington and Mrs. Vess Richardson.

Mrs. William Schutt presided at a business meeting where an auditing committee of Mrs. J. H. Gwinn, Mrs. Joe Smetana and Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick was appointed.

It was announced that new officers would be installed at the September meeting.

Garden Club News

Mrs. Wilbord Acker hosted a picnic dinner of the Green Ridge Garden Club at her home in Sedalia Friday for 23 members and guests.

"Roses for the Future" was the title of a program given by Mrs. W. L. Whittall.

During the business meeting the club voted to make a contribution to the Missouri Prairie Foundation, World Gardening, Friends of the Garden and Permanent Home and Endowment Fund.

It was announced that club members would make floral arrangements for Jubilee Day in Green Ridge.

Americans Favor Lobster

By TOM HOGE

AP Newsfeatures Writer

I drove up to Boston a couple of weeks ago to sample some New England lobster and visit the new Boston branch of Mamma Leone's, the Italian restaurant which has been operating in New York since 1906. I achieved both goals with one gargantuan meal.

Astronaut Frank Borman once told a group of admirers commemorating his trip to the moon with a dinner at the New York Leone's. "This is the first time I've come to this place and didn't have to wait for a table."

The Boston branch draws wedge of cheese, a loaf of Italian bread and a big bowl of celery, olives, pickled peppers and fresh tomatoes. Then there is the seemingly endless antipasto, featuring melon and prosciutto, shrimps in hot sauce, salami, veal caponata and a dozen other tidbits. All this before you've reached the soup course.

But lobster was uppermost in my mind and I tried to show enough restraint to leave room for it.

The price of shellfish has soared out of sight in recent months, but it seems to make little difference in the vast amounts that Americans buy. We still consume more lobsters, shrimps, crabs, oysters and clams per capita than any country of the world.

And of all these shellfish, Maine lobster is the most coveted by most seafood lovers.

As Americans began to realize how delicious lobster was in so many versions — broiled, boiled, baked and in stews, salads and casseroles — the market began to climb.

With the approach of summer, however, the price of lobster does go down somewhat and you can once again enjoy the nuggets of sweet lobster meat either dipped in butter or laced with a spicy sauce.

Jewelry Charms

Plastic charms that come from penny candy machines are being collected and turned into jewelry. Sewn on material or linked together on colorful thread, the charms make great necklaces and bracelets.

Shoe Business

Fuller-cut pant legs focus attention on clunky heels and platforms, that are climbing ever higher. Many are adding color to already colorful shoes by painting or adding decals to heels.

Honored by ABWA

James Rau, general manager of U.S. Rents-It in Sedalia, Columbia and Jefferson City, was selected Boss of the Year at the annual Boss Night Banquet of American Business Women's Association Monday at Maxine's Gourmet House. Rau was selected on the basis of an entry form submitted by his secretary, Mrs. Juanita McCowan. Mrs. Doris Campbell, left, was honored as Woman of the Year by members of the Sedalia chapter ABWA at the event. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Sorority Plans Summer Activities

Plans for a summer picnic and fall activities were discussed during the business meeting of Epsilon Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Monday at the home of Mrs. Robert Rudisill.

Mrs. Donald Barbour, vice president, conducted the meeting where the year's yardstick was made out and sent to the international organization.

SAN FRANCISCO — No matter how often a stranger comes back to the Top of the Mark, the excitement never fades. If you've left your heart in San Francisco, the city by midnight packs the same wallop every time: Diamonds on black velvet, and wind like cold champagne. You look down on a city of beauty and strength and grace — but this Saturday at midnight, you wonder at the depravity, too.

The movie "Deep Throat" has been playing for 13 weeks at the Presidio Centre, and at North Beach theaters. I went around to the Presidio to take in the last show of the evening. No apologies. If a reporter's beat is the best and the worst of this world, he goes where the beat takes him. "Deep Throat," in its own morbid fashion, is the best and worst combined. It is the richest piece of pornography ever contrived.

The movie "Deep Throat" has been playing for 13 weeks at the Presidio Centre, and at North Beach theaters. I went around to the Presidio to take in the last show of the evening. No apologies. If a reporter's beat is the best and the worst of this world, he goes where the beat takes him. "Deep Throat," in its own morbid fashion, is the best and worst combined. It is the richest piece of pornography ever contrived.

Doubtless the title will pass to some other film before long, but for now, "Deep Throat" is the champion of its skunk-cabbage field. The film reportedly cost no more than $25,000 to produce. Its gross already has passed $5 million, according to trade estimates, and customers still are flocking in. The proprietors of "art" theaters and "X" houses look upon it, though the word seems odd, as their salvation.

Sam Calhoun, manager of the Presidio, is a part of the mad incongruity of the new pornography. There was a time, not so long ago, when stag movies were shown only in grimy little book stores or in sleazy second-floor walkups. The proprietors were hard-eyed uglies, soiled by the flesh trade. No more. The Presidio's red carpets are getting worn, but this is a nice house, and Calhoun looks as if he ought to work with Eagle Scouts on his weekends. He is young, agreeable, sandy-haired. He is a salesman well pleased with the new car he is selling. "Have a look," he says.

We stand in a side aisle, watching "Deep Throat" reel on. The color quality is good; the camera work, especially in closeups, is professionally flawless; the direction, like the action, is explicit. Calhoun points all this out, as if he were talking of white sidewalls and disc brakes. What we are watching, of course, is unrelieved lewdness — 62 minutes of hard-core carnality. Calhoun, the friendly neighborhood dealer, might be admiring a nice grill and fender.

The Presidio seats 740. Calhoun has a full house tonight. He has been averaging 75 per cent of capacity, eight shows a day, since "Deep Throat" began. Sunday's Chronicle carries a prideful ad from the three theaters showing the film: "Over 246,490 happy, smiling, satisfied people have seen 'Deep Throat' in our city."

Who are these happy customers? Calhoun says nearly half of them are women, and a random count of eight rows confirms his statement. On weekdays, nearly two-thirds of his matinee house will be composed of suburban housewives who come to town for luncheon, shopping, and "Deep Throat." Office girls giggle in for a long lunch hour. Most of the patrons, men and women, are in their twenties or early thirties. One white-haired couple approaches sixty.

Calhoun gets a brisk business from tour

groups who come in buses, and from visiting firemen in town on convention, but the bulk of his customers are locals. They file out, a little before midnight. A few women look faint; a few look revolted; most of them are vacantly smiling. When I was growing up, you used to see these same pleased expressions, after the curtain, on crowds leaving a Mae West movie. They thought it was funny, and it was funny then.

This isn't funny. It's sick. The pornographers who put this film together took the sexual relationship of man and women, drained it of tenderness and love, and put it on the midway as a sideshow freak: Linda Lovelace in one tent, Frog Boy in the next. And Calhoun, amiably discussing next year's models, has better and worse ahead.

To say that pornography is a cancer in the body politic is to say too much. Pornography is more like an abscess. High on the Top of the Mark, one sees this infection in perspective, an ugly blemish on a tolerably healthy society. Up close, pornography is something else. Up close, it looks like pus.

Hands of President
are tied

WASHINGTON — No one believes in the separation of powers more than I do. But when Congress voted last week to cut off funds used to bomb Cambodia I think they went too far.

Buchwald

It has been one of the traditions of the government for the past 10 years that a President has the authority to bomb where and when he wants to regardless of race, creed or color.

This has worked very well and the United States has dropped more bombs on Indochina than it did during World Wars I, II, III, IV and V.

Not only was Congress wrong in refusing to vote the funds for the future bombing of Cambodia but it couldn't have picked a more inopportune time to have done it. President Nixon is beset with tremendous problems at home and abroad. He has lost his White House staff; the Senate committee keeps probing into his role in the Watergate affair; men he trusted have been lying through their teeth about administration coverups; the CIA refuses to play ball with the President's version of what happened after Watergate; and the FBI, after a slow start, is uncovering massive violations of the law.

The only solace the President could take during this period is that he could bomb Cambodia whenever he wanted to. He could pick up the phone at any time, day or night, and say, "Henry, I've had a bad day. I want six squadrons of B-52s to dump two million tons of bombs on the suburbs of Phnomh Penh."

Even while the press was zeroing in on the so-called "plumbers'" operation in the White House, even while John Dean was spilling the beans to Newsweek and Time, even though John Mitchell was telling reporters he had no intention of being a scapegoat, the President could survive because he knew if things really got rough he could always kick the hell out of Indochina.

It seems to me that Congress should have taken this into consideration when it overwhelmingly voted to cut off this presidential option. While they certainly have the right to look into Watergate, and while no one disputes their sincerity in getting us out of Indochina once and for all, bombing is still the President's business.

Many times we have been told that only Presidents really know what it is to be President. It is the loneliest job in the world with very few satisfactions.

One of the big pluses was that as Commander-in-Chief you could send Air Force and Navy planes against any target you felt threatened the security of the United States.

By cutting off funds to bomb Cambodia, Congress has tied the President's hands behind his back. They have made it impossible for him to use the weapons that he has at his disposal for whatever purposes he deems necessary to teach the North Vietnamese a lesson. It is a dastardly move that could only depress the President more than he is right now.

I am not just thinking of President Nixon when I protest this congressional action. I am thinking of future Presidents of the United States.

One of the great inducements for becoming President is being able to bomb targets at will without consulting Congress. It is probably the greatest fringe benefit the American people can offer the holder of the most important position in this land.

My fear is that Congress in taking this prerogative away from the President may have discouraged many qualified people from running for this office.

Countless presidential candidates have told me personally, "If I can't bomb Cambodia when I want to, I'm not interested in the job."

So the question I pose today is: Can we afford to lose this caliber of men just because Congress has thrown out the baby with the bath water?

Amtrak's railroads
part of the problem

If Amtrak is to be a success, it looks like it will be despite the management of certain participating railroads rather than because of it.

An Amtrak sales executive, speaking in Sedalia last week, said the rail passenger corporation continues to be plagued by shoddy service and uncooperative attitudes by some railroads. Difficulties experienced with Penn Central, which runs the New York-to-Kansas City National Limited as far west as St. Louis, were mentioned as a prime example.

Those who have had experience with this particular route can only add an "amen." Not only do the Penn Central crews run chronically late, but cars are often filthy and personnel rude. This is in contrast to other Amtrak routes, which can offer an enjoyable travel experience.

There are other railroads, Missouri Pacific and the Southern Pacific among them, that have shown something less than wholehearted support for Amtrak.

Under the management set-up governing Amtrak, however, apparently it is extremely difficult to correct deficiencies. Amtrak can point out problems and order that they be solved, but it can't step in and actually run the railroad itself. This could prove to be a serious flaw in the entire system.

A network television news program recently examined Amtrak's board of directors, pointing out that several members are presidents of railroads that actively sought to destroy rail passenger transportation, and nearly did it. Such a situation gives one pause as to just how badly some who are running Amtrak want it to succeed.

On the plus side of the ledger, however, are certain factors that point to an increased role for passenger trains. Urban congestion, the high costs of building airports and highways, environmental and pollution factors, conservation of energy — all help to make a good case for retaining and expanding rail passenger transportation, especially in certain areas.

A public that is aware of these considerations, and increasingly impatient with those who would abuse Amtrak's tax-supported operating funds, can help insure that the passenger trains will keep running.

"NIXON'S NOT ALL BAD. HE'S GOT US EATING LESS AND WALKING MORE."

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — By President Nixon's account, aide John Ehrlichman wasn't supposed to impede the Watergate investigation but merely to make sure it didn't impinge upon national security. Yet Ehrlichman spoke only about political security when he asked Herbert Kalmbach to participate in the Watergate cover-up.

As Kalmbach has recounted the conversation to investigators, Ehrlichman warned that the investigation could "jeopardize" the election campaign. In a reference to the Democrats, he snorted: "They'll have our heads in their laps."

Kalmbach had agreed to raise money to pay the living and legal expenses of the Watergate defendants. He was never told the money would be offered as a bribe to buy their silence, but the James Bond intrigue made him suspicious.

He sought reassurances from Ehrlichman, whom he confronted in the White House in late July. Kalmbach told investigators that he put the question on a personal basis. "John," he said, "we've been friends for 10 years. You know my family and I know your family. I want you to tell me whether this assignment is proper and must be carried out."

He quoted Ehrlichman as reassuring him that the payoffs were entirely proper but that the secrecy was necessary for political reasons.

The last approach to Kalmbach for payoff money was made as late as Jan. 18, 1973, at a meeting in ex-Attorney General John Mitchell's office. Kalmbach recalled that John Dean, then the White House counsel, had accompanied him to the meeting. But by this time, Kalmbach had decided he wanted nothing more to do with the project, so he quietly excused himself after 10 minutes.

Merry-go-round

Hush money raised
by Herb Kalmbach

As the President's personal attorney, Kalmbach has been one of the most silent men in the Watergate mystery. He has told his story to investigators, however, with quiet candor.

A few days after the Waterbuggers were caught, he was summoned to Washington by John Dean, who arranged to meet him on the street in front of the Hay-Adams Hotel. Dean carefully stressed the necessity for secrecy and then asked him to underwrite the Watergate defendant's expenses.

Dean suggested that the hush money, as it was later used, should be channeled through a burly New York private detective named Anthony Ulasewicz. The undercoverman was known to Kalmbach who, in 1969, had set up a special bank account to pay him $22,000 a year, plus expenses, for investigative work. Ulasewicz's main assignment, though Kalmbach was never told this, was to dig up dirt on Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass.

Kalmbach told investigators he collected between $210,000 and $230,000, which was distributed to the Watergate defendants.

He picked up $75,000 from Maurice Stans, the Republican finance chairman; another $75,000 from Thomas Jones, president of Northrop Corp.; and the balance from campaign bag man Fred LaRue.

The arrangements were handled with elaborate secrecy. Kalmbach and Ulasewicz placed calls to one another through pay phones and used verbal shorthand to identify the people involved in their conversation.

Watergate ringleader E. Howard Hunt, for example, was referred to as "the writer," and his wife Dorothy as "the writer's wife." Ulasewicz used several aliases, his favorite being "Mr. Rivers."

Some of the money was directed to Dorothy Hunt who used the code name "Chris" in her own pay-phone calls to the other Watergate defendants.

It was this James Bond business, Kalmbach told investigators, that finally persuaded him to end his role in the Watergate conspiracy.

GREEK JUSTICE: Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., has triggered an unprecedented State Department protest to the Greek junta over the arrest of six lawyers in Athens. Their only crime, Bayh charged, was defending young college students who had demonstrated against the regime.

It was his understanding, he advised Secretary of State William Rogers privately, that the six were "being held incommunicado and subjected to torture by the special interrogation branch of the Greek military police in a building opposite our own embassy in Athens."

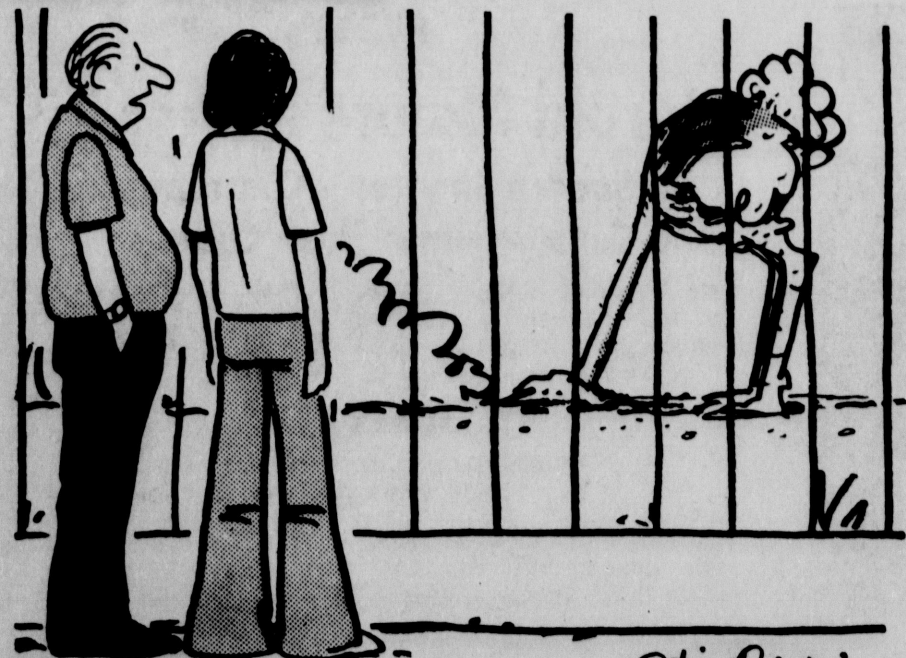

Rogers ordered aides to investigate the charges. He was sufficiently disturbed over their report to authorize a formal protest both to the Greek embassy in Washington and to the Greek government in Athens by way of the U.S. embassy.

The protest was diplomatically phrased as an expression of serious concern. Yet it was a significant departure for the State Department, since it touched on the internal affairs of Greece.

FOOTNOTE: Elias Demetrapoulos, the exile leader who first tipped Bayh to the torture of the lawyers, has told us that an American-trained sociologist, Virginia Tsouderos, and a university professor, Demetrios Tsatsos, both Greek citizens, have also been arrested in the case. Their crime, allegedly, was to protest the arrest of the six lawyers.

House Votes Minimum Wage Hike This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to boost the $1.60 minimum wage to $2 this year and $2.20 in 1974 and to bring government workers and household domestics under the law.

The 287-130 vote that sent the bill to the Senate Wednesday reversed a bitter defeat suffered last year by the House leadership, which has been trying since 1970 to increase the minimum wage.

The votes of newly elected members and rural Democrats who want support later in the session for a farm bill turned the tide in favor of the legislation.

The key vote came on a substitute bill backed by Republicans and Southern Democrats which would have stretched out the proposed increase another year, eliminated the new coverage and set a reduced rate for teen-agers.

The substitute bill was defeated 218 to 199 and its major provisions, offered separately as amendments to the Democratic bill sponsored by Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., were turned back by similar margins.

The Dent bill would raise wage rates for three groups: those covered by the minimum wage before the law was last amended in 1966, those covered by the 1966 amendments, and farm workers.

For the first group, the rate would go to $2 upon enactment of the bill and to $2.20 on July 1, 1974. For the second group it would go to $1.80 this year, $2 next year and $2.20 in 1975.

The 3.3 million state and local government employees, 1.7 million federal workers and 1 million household domestic would get the same rates as the second group.

Farm workers, who now get a minimum of $1.30 an hour,

Young Fisherman Drowns In Canal

CENTREVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Juan Hairston, 10, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hairston of Centreville, drowned Wednesday while fishing in a canal on the southeast side of the city, police said.

The youth jumped into the canal to retrieve his shirt and never came up. Two boys who were fishing with the Hairston youth were unsuccessful in attempts to save him, police said.

The boy's body was recovered about six hours later.

would go to $1.60 this year and then get three annual 20-cent increases, reaching $2.20 in 1976.

The sharpest fight came over the proposal in the coalition bill to permit hiring of teen-age workers at 80 per cent of the minimum during their first six months on the job.

Its proponents said the provision was necessary to overcome high unemployment rates among youths but it was attacked as a device to permit substandard wages. An attempt to add it to the Dent bill was defeated 215 to 199.

Opening lead—♣ 10

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One major difference between an expert and an average player is that the expert sees all sorts of possibilities that the average player overlooks.

The average player would look over dummy; see that there was no apparent way to avoid the loss of a heart trick. Then he would draw trumps; lead his queen of hearts and hope that West would hold the king and not cover.

The expert would see two legitimate ways to make the grand slam. The way it works this time is for South to play a few rounds of trumps; cash dummy's ace of hearts; run off all his black cards and eventually make his 13th trick with his queen of hearts or one of dummy's small diamonds, depending on what poor East, who was dealt five diamonds and the king of hearts, is holding onto at the finish.

The way that doesn't work is for South to play dummy's ace and king of diamonds ruff a third diamond and then run off his black cards in the same manner. This play would have worked if West held the king of hearts and at least four diamonds.

Which line of play is the better one? The one that works, because it will bring home the contract against five diamonds and the king of hearts in either the East or West hand. The other line can only squeeze West.

Senators Favored for President

By LOUIS HARRIS

By 55 to 34 per cent, a clear majority of the American people still feels that "being a U.S. senator is better experience for becoming President than being a governor of a state."

This question has risen in political importance as senators, rather than governors, have dominated Presidential contests in recent years. Many state governors, however, after years of struggling under rising expenses and rising taxes, are now enjoying state surpluses and, for the first time, are in a position to reduce state taxes. This in turn has led some political observers to speculate that it might become fashionable once again by 1976 to look to state chief executives to fill the top places on the national ticket.

The main reason the public cites for feeling that senators are better qualified to become President is that "they understand the inner workings of the federal government." As a student in Stony Brook, N.Y., put it, "A President these days must know a lot about just what is going on in the federal government, and senators are experienced in this, with all the investigations that have been going on." Although governors might have comparable experience, many people nonetheless feel they would have to learn much new ground if elected to the White House.

In fact, the top reason cited for believing governors to be better qualified than senators to run for President is that "a governor runs a whole state, much like the federal government, but on a smaller scale." This, of course, was the argument for many years when the prevailing practice was to nominate a governor for the White House. The common assumption was that a governor could best prove himself as an administrator and in dealing with a legislative branch, as well as assuming political control of his party in his state.

But in recent years, the office of governor in most states has fallen into disrepute, mainly in the fiscal area, when taxes had to be raised. As a consequence, with rare exceptions, many governors found their own jobs in jeopardy when they came up for reelection, much less aspiring to political advancement. Whether their political fortunes will improve when tax relief is in sight this year and next remains to be seen.

However, when voters were asked how they would rate their own governors as Presidential timber, the answers came up negative by 60-21 per cent. A nationwide cross section of 1,537 households was asked: "Do you think the governor of your state would make an excellent President of the United States, a pretty good President, only fair, or a poor President?"

	Total Public
Excellent	4
Pretty good	17
Only fair	28
Poor	32
Not sure	19

By region of the country, the results do not vary appreciably. In the East, people are 64-20 per cent negative, in the Midwest 57-20 per cent negative, in the South 56-20 per cent negative and in the West an even higher 67-22 per cent negative. When asked why they felt this way, the most frequent responses were such statements as: "he has not shown proper leadership qualities," "he has not been that good as governor," or "he has not kept his promises right here in this state."

These results would indicate that although the outlook for governors may be picking up, there is still much ground to be made up in rehabilitating governors as Presidential material. Despite this generally poor over-all reputation for governors, nonetheless a number of state chief executives have been mentioned as 1976 possibilities, ranging from Governors Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California on the Republican side, to Governors Reubin Askew of Florida and John Gilligan of Ohio on the Democratic side. Before he became vice-president, of course, Spiro Agnew was governor of Maryland, and John Connally served for many years as governor of Texas.

One consistent reason that favors senators as likely material for the White House has been their experience in the area of foreign policy. Governors might go through almost all of the range of other problems faced by a President, but the most notable lack of exposure is in international affairs. This was the second most frequent reason people gave for preferring senators to governors for the White House. Both in 1968 and in 1972, one of the dominant reasons for Nixon's election could be traced to the high priority voters gave to foreign-policy experience.

On the direct choice, people were asked: "In the history of the United States, we have had some Presidents who were governors and some who were U.S. senators. In general, do you feel being a governor is better experience for becoming President, or is being a U.S. senator better experience for becoming President?"

	Total Public
U.S. Senator	55
Governor	34
Not sure	11

These results should not be taken to preclude a governor from making it as the next President. But, more people are likely to be looking to the Senate for their party's nominee than to the state houses, unless a particular governor can project the idea that he towers above the lackluster reputations of most of his colleagues in the eyes of the voters.

Former Ball Player Is Free on Bail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former major league baseball player Jerry Priddy is free on bail today after his attorney said he is not responsible for attempts to extort $250,000 from a ship company by placing bombs aboard one of its luxury liners.

Priddy, now head of an advertising company after an 11-year big league career, was arraigned Wednesday on a charge of interfering with commerce by threats of violence. If convicted, the 53-year-old Priddy could be sentenced to 20 years in prison and fined $10,000.

The cruise ship, the Island Princess, was scheduled to arrive today at Puerto Vallarta, Mexico. It is carrying 529 passengers and 320 crewmen.

The vessel left Los Angeles on Monday, and two tiny packages were found aboard the ship Tuesday after the owners received an extortion demand. The packages were hurled into the sea and it was not known whether they actually contained explosives.

Priddy was arrested at his office in suburban Burbank Tuesday evening. The FBI said he had picked up the package allegedly containing the $250,000. His attorney, Karl Ransom, said the package was left in a trash can behind Priddy's office.

The Princess Cruises spokesman said the package contained only paper — "It was impossible to get the $250,000 together within the time he (the extortionist) gave us."

New Fire Department Being Hired

MOLINE ACRES, Mo. (AP) — The Board of Directors of the Moline Fire Protection District is hiring a whole new fire department to replace 11 fire fighters dismissed during a labor dispute last Friday.

All but one of the district's firemen were fired after they set up pickets and staged a work slowdown to protest what they said was the board's failure to pay pension benefit increases.

The district provides fire protection for the north St. Louis County municipalities of Dellwood, Moline Acres and a portion of Ferguson. Emergency calls were being handled by neighboring fire departments. Two firemen were hired Wednesday and the board said in a statement Wednesday night that more applications were being processed. The three-man fire department would be able to operate the district's only pumper in case of an emergency, the statement said.

The board will accept job applications from the discharged employees, the statement said, but if the dismissed firemen were rehired, they would be probationary employees for a six-month period.

Members of the board contend the pension benefits, totaling about $1,200 per man each year, can not feasibly be paid by the district.

Both sides of the dispute filed suits in St. Louis County Circuit Court Wednesday.

The firemen filed a petition seeking reinstatement and the board entered a suit which asked for an injunction to stop the picketing and $100,000 in damages.

Yanks Win 4th in Row

Hidden Ball Trick Kills Texas Rally

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN, Associated Press Sports Writer

Now you see it, now you don't. Vic Harris didn't. Umpire Bill Deegan did and he had two words for Harris. They were, "You're out!"

Harris, the young Texas center fielder, probably had a few choice words of his own but they were surely unprintable after veteran New York shortstop Gene Michael embarrassed him with the hidden ball trick for the rally-killing third out in the fifth inning of the Yankees' 5-2 victory over the Rangers Wednesday night.

It was the Yanks' fourth consecutive victory and lifted them within one-half game of Detroit in the AL East.

The Baltimore Orioles bombed Chicago 14-4, slaying the slumping White Sox' lead in the American League West to just three percentage points over the Minnesota Twins, who swept a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians, 7-3 in 15 innings and 13-9. Elsewhere, the California Angels downed the Detroit Tigers 7-4, the Boston Red Sox edged the Kansas City Royals 5-4 on Bob Montgomery's second home run of the game in the 10th inning and the Oakland A's battered the Milwaukee Brewers 11-1.

Sandy Alomar keyed a pair of two-run rallies with a single in the first inning and a triple in the second while Bill Singer and Dave Sell pitched the Angels to a 7-4 victory over the Tigers and Joe Coleman. Vada Pinson homered for the Angels.

Brooks Robinson and Earl Williams each homered and combined to drive in six runs as Baltimore's revived long-ball attack powered the Orioles over the slumping White Sox. The loss was the fifth straight for the Sox.

Robinson's first homer since May 1 and a sacrifice fly accounted for four runs while Williams hit his first homer since April 22, a two-run shot. Chicago's Dick Allen took over the league lead with his 14th homer.

Jim Holt slugged two home runs and Steve Braun added one in a 16-hit attack that carried Minnesota to its second-game victory over Cleveland and a sweep of the twin bill. A double error by shortstop Frank Duffy enabled Larry Hise to score the tie-breaking run in the 15th inning of the opener as the Twins scored four runs.

Bob Montgomery's second home run of the game—and the season—leading off the 10th inning lifted the Red Sox to a sweep of their three-game series with Kansas City. The Royals tied the score with two out in the ninth when Paul Schaal walked and designated hitter Jim Wohlford homered. Boston's designated hitter, Orlando Cepeda, also homered.

Reggie Jackson drove in five runs with one of three Oakland homers in the first inning and a double as the A's ended the Brewers' five-game winning streak.

WINNIPEG (AP) — A charge of possession of cocaine has been added to a marijuana possession charge against American Mack Herron, star running back for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League.

The additional charge was laid Tuesday by Winnipeg police as a result of a further inspection of instruments seized in a raid on Herron's apartment May 26.

Herron, 24, was remanded yesterday on both charges without plea for one week in provincial judges' court.

Six Americans Remain

Roger McManus Puts Vacation to Good Use

PORTRCAWL, Wales (AP) — Roger McManus, taking his first two-week vacation in nearly a quarter of a century, has put it to good use, moving through three rounds of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

The 49-year-old businessman from Hartville, Ohio, is one of six Americans left in this prestigious tournament. The 32 survivors also include 25 Britons. An 18-year-old Brazilian, Jayme Gonzalez, who has been burning up Royal Portcawl's 6,600-yard links beside the Bristol Channel, completes the list.

Another American on a winning streak is Dale Morey, 44-year-old salesman who made it to the British semifinals in 1964.

Morey played two matches Wednesday and still was on the course for only three hours. "I think age is no bar to good golf," he said. "You really start playing the game right when you reach the fifties."

The other Americans among the last 32 are Jack Beutler, Clarkston, Wash.; Dick Side-row, Easton, Conn.; Tom Culligan, San Mateo, Calif., and Howell Van Gerbig, Palm Beach, Fla.

Gonzalez, the teenage wonder from Brazil, shot a two-under-par 70 Wednesday morning, then came back with a 68.

He needed that 68 for a one-up victory over Scotland's David Robertson.

Only three of the original eight Britons seeded as favorites for the title were left in the group of 32—Peter Moody, David Marsh and Rodney Foster.

PANAMA CITY (AP) — The United States and Panama will play an amateur baseball series later this month, the Panamanian Federation of Amateur Baseball announced Wednesday.

The U. S. team is expected to arrive here June 21 and the first game between the two countries was set for the following day, the federation said.

Secretariat Draws Inside Post Slot

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat was officially entered to-day—and drew the inside post position—for Saturday's Belmont Stakes, where he will meet five 3-year-olds in a bid to win thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

The Meadow Stable star, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, is heavily favored to capture the 1½-mile classic and become the first Triple Crown winner since Citation achieved the feat in 1948.

Others entered today, in order of post position, were C.V. Whitney's Pvt. Smiles, Arthur Appleton's My Gallant, Sigma and Sommers' Knightly Dawn, Max Gluck's Twice a Prince and Sommers' Sham.

If six go to the post at 5:38 p.m. Saturday, the 105th Belmont will be worth $151,200, with $97,720 to the winner. Each starter will carry 126 pounds for the race.

It will be televised nationally by CBS from 5-6 p.m.

Shortly before trainer Frank

"Pancho" Martin announced Wednesday he planned to run Knightly Dawn as an entry with Sham, Secretariat put in his final workout for the Belmont, going a half-mile in 46 3-5 seconds and out five-eighths in 59 2-5.

The big chestnut's fractions were 12 for the first eighth of a mile, 24 for a quarter, 35 for three-eighths, 1:46 3-5 and 59 2-5.

As usual Ron Turcotte, Secretariat's jockey, was aboard the son of Bold Ruler for the workout.

"He was well within himself," Turcotte said. "He could have gone faster if I had asked him."

The combine of Meadow Stable, trainer Lucien Laurin and Turcotte also won the Belmont last year with Riva Ridge. But they missed the Triple Crown, which hasn't been won since Citation did it in 1948, because Riva Ridge finished fourth in the Preakness after winning the Derby.

Competing With Men Doesn't Have Anything To Do With Women's Lib Says Janice Metcalf

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Janice Metcalf's playing tennis on the men's team at the University of Redlands has nothing to do with Women's Lib. "It's just to improve my game," the 20-year-old said.

Miss Metcalf was the first woman to play in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tennis tournament since 1964 and the first woman to win a match in the tourney.

The first woman to compete in the tournament was Carlene Basore of William Jewell College in Liberty, Mo., who lost in the second round in 1964 after a first-round default victory.

The following year the NAIA voted to bar women from competition, a ban lifted three months ago.

Miss Metcalf, the defending women's intercollegiate champion, won her first four matches this year's tourney before falling Wednesday to Wilson Campbell of East Texas State 6-7, 0-6.

Even though losing, she was excited because the California school was in competition to regain its national title taken away by East Texas last year after a six-year reign.

"I think I helped," said the tall coed, who will be a senior next year. "I contributed four points."

She was the No. 4 singles player on the team because "she was the fourth best player in school," said Coach Jim Verdieck, who has been at the Redlands post 27 years.

"She has a sound over-all tennis game and hits tough ground strokes," he said.

Verdieck said when she approached him to try out for the team he said, "You can play if you can make it."

Miss Metcalf said she had practiced with members of the men's team last year and talked with some of them before trying out this year. She said she didn't think any of them resented her trying out.

Competing with men has improved her game, the Claremont, Calif., native said, but playing against them forces her to play a more controlled game. "Against women you can go for a winner more," she said. "Against men you have to watch your shots."

A trip to the World Federation Cup tournament in Germany this spring whetted her appetite for travel, which she will partially satisfy this summer by competing in several tournaments.

The first will be defense of her women's intercollegiate title, opening Sunday at Auburn, Ala.

Miss Metcalf said she plans to complete work on her degree in physical education at Redlands next year, then join the professional tour to "travel, see how I do and make some money."

Simmons Bats in Four As Cardinals Fly High

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ted Simmons made no pretense of Ruthian power, but a season-long drought in home runs was becoming wearisome.

Thus the St. Louis Cardinals catcher was able to breathe easier after breaking a dry spell Wednesday night against the San Diego Padres.

Simmons, the Cards' cleanup man, homered with two teammates aboard and singled during his team's 6-3 gallop.

But equally pleasing to the 23-year-old switch-hitter was a ringing double in the first inning which drove home the game's first run.

"Homers are fun, but they come in streaks," conceded Simmons, who in 1972 hit 16 round-trip blasts and led the Cards with 96 runs batted in.

"But last year I hit 35 or 36 doubles. That's what this park is geared for," he said. "When I start hitting the ball into the gap and getting doubles, that's an indication I'm hitting the ball right."

Simmons, batting .305 left-handed and .266 over-all, ripped Padres right-hander Clay Kirby, 2-6, for all his hits before grounding out against left-hander Rich Troedson.

His two-base shot into the left field corner established a 1-0 Cards lead in the first, but San Diego tied the next inning on a double and single.

St. Louis wasted Simmons' lead-off single in the fourth inning, then exploded for five runs capped by his home run to kayo Kirby in the fifth.

Jose Cruz' single was the only other hit in the rally. Mike Tyson following with a walk and Bob Gibson and Ted Siz-emore remained alive on fielder's choices.

Kirby fanned Joe Torre for a second out with the score 3-1 but grooved a fast ball that Simmons hit on an arc into the right field bleachers on a 1-1 delivery.

"I got all of it," Simmons said of the pitch. "I knew it was going. I just don't usually hit the ball up like that."

The victory was the hot Cards' fifth in a row and 16th in 18 games, lifting them into second place in the National League East Division standings a percentage point ahead of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Disdained by Gibson, 4-6, who pitched a five-hitter, was ex-teammate LeRon Lee's two-run homer with one out in the ninth.

"You could tell he was guessing for a pitch," said the 37-year-old Gibson, who served Lee a low, inside curve. "He got it," he added with resignation, "and he hit it."

Cards Trade One for Two With Texas

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jim Bibby, a 28-year-old right-hander with an 0-2 record this season, was dealt to the Texas Rangers Wednesday in exchange for pitcher Mike Nagy and catcher Johnny Wockenfuss, the St. Louis Cardinals announced.

Nagy, 25, who was with the Cardinals organization earlier this year, will report to the Cardinals' farm club at Tulsa in the American Association. Both Nagy and Wockenfuss, who also will go to Tulsa, were with the Texas organization at Spokane of the Pacific Coast League.

While at Spokane, Nagy, a right-hander, posted a 3-4 record and an earned run average of 5.48. Wockenfuss was hitting .233 in 16 games at Spokane.

Bibby had failed to produce a victory in six starts with St. Louis this season and had a 9.56 ERA.

Red Sox Sweep Series

Boston's Sub Catcher Tough on Kansas City

BOSTON (AP) — Substitute catcher Bob Montgomery was the hero of the game with two home runs, including the game-winning slam. He took it in stride.

"It's one of those things," he said in the locker room after the Boston Red Sox had defeated the Kansas City Royals 5-4 Wednesday afternoon at Fenway Park. "I might have faced him (Doug Bird) 10 times and never have gotten a hit."

Montgomery, who replaced the Red Sox' regular catcher Carlton Fisk for the day, led off the top of the 10th inning with the score tied 4-4 and drilled a shot into the high left field net. His first homer and his first of the season in the seventh inning had given the Boston club a 4-2 lead.

Montgomery ripped both of his homers off Bird, who had relieved Kansas City starter Ken Wright in the fifth after Wright developed blisters on his pitching hand.

"We gave Fisk a day of rest and also won a ball game," Red Sox manager Eddie Kasko said. "You can't ask for anything more than that."

Kansas City opened the fourth inning with a walk to Cookie Rojas and a single by Lou Piniella. They each moved up a base on a throwing error by first baseman Carl Yastrzemski on an attempted steal by Piniella. Rojas scored on a sacrifice fly and Piniella on a double by Paul Schaal.

Boston bounced back in the bottom of the fourth when Yastrzemski walked and designated hitter Orlando Cepeda rifled his eighth homer of the year into the left field net. The Red Sox added another run in the fifth when Luis Aparicio hit a sacrifice fly following three straight walks by Kansas City pitchers and another in the seventh on Montgomery's first homer.

Designated hitter Jim Wohlford made it a whole new ball game in the ninth when he lashed a homer with Schaal on base.

"I knew it was out," Lee said of Wohlford's blast. "The pitch was right down the middle, maybe a quarter of an inch high. But it was too good to take."

Lee allowed six hits while striking out three and walking four enroute to his sixth victory against two losses. His opponent at the beginning, Wright, struck out eight, including the side in the third, and appeared to be on his way to a good game before his blister problem.

Golf Clinic Opens

The first session of the Walnut Hills Country Club Junior Golf Clinic will be held Friday by club professional Bob McFerren at Walnut Hills.

The clinic, which will begin at 9 a.m., is for boys and girls between the ages of 8-17.

Cost of the five-week course is $5; interested persons who have not pre-registered, are asked to show up at 9 a.m. Friday.

New Orleans Dome Frame Complete

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The last piece of steelwork was bolted in place Wednesday in the frame of the Louisiana Superdome's roof.

The roof itself is next, officials said: first a sheet of steel, followed by an inch of foam insulation, a sprayed-on layer of silicone rubber, and an outside layer of gray-white ceramic chips.

Attaching the final steel beam was done with the 5,000 tons of gridwork still supported by 37 temporary towers. Officials estimated the towers will be removed by the end of the month.

WHA MVP Nod Goes To Hull

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Hull—who else?—today was named the World Hockey Association's most valuable player for 1972-3.

Hull, who's signing to become player-coach of the Winnipeg Jets did as much to get the fledgling WHA on its feet as anything else, received 20 first-place votes and 119 points from a panel of 36 sports writers and broadcasters in WHA cities.

Cleveland goalie Gerry Cheevers was runnerup with 66 points and Quebec defenseman J.C. Tremblay was third with 48.

Hull, who played 15 seasons with the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, signed a long-term, $3 million-plus contract to join the Jets prior to the league's first year of operation.

He is the only man to win MPV honors and scored 50 goals in one season in each league. Hull was the NHL's MVP in 1965 and 1966.

In ITA Mile...

Ryun Finishes Distant Fourth

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike O'Hara, founder of the International Track Association, looked ahead today to next season, while pronouncing the first pro track campaign "a resounding success."

The 1973 circuit ended Wednesday night with an ITA record long jump of 27 feet, 1 inch by Henry Hines; a Garden record of 5.9 seconds in the 60-yard dash by Jean-Louis Ravelomanantaoa, and a popular mile victory by Kip Keino.

The major disappointment was the last-place finish of Jim Ryun in the mile. Ryun, the world outdoor record holder for the mile and 1,500-meters, winner of his nine previous ITA races and 11 of 13 over-all, was loudly cheered by the crowd when he was introduced prior to the race. When it ended, he was showered with boos.

Ryun was in second place early in the race, but quickly faded and finished a distant fourth in 4:11.9. Keino, the short, husky Kenyan ex-cop, burst into the lead with two laps remaining and won handily in 4:03.0.

The victory capped a rather disappointing season for Keino, the two-time Olympic gold medalist who had to leave the tour temporarily and return to Kenya for personal reasons.

Ryun termed the pro track venture "a gamble for everyone." "I wanted to help get it off the ground," he said. "And I think I accomplished that. I'm really looking forward to next season."

So is O'Hara, a member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic volleyball team.

"What we tried to do in our first year was attract the sports fan, in addition to the track fan," he explained. "I think we did that."

Next year, he said, the tour would start earlier than it did this year, when it began the first week of March, and it would be held during the regular indoor season.

There also has been talk about holding some meets outdoors on the West Coast, and at least one meet will be nationally televised.

"We also hope to add more athletes, about six or eight," said O'Hara. "But we will be selective in whom we pick."

Among those expected to join the troupe is Steve Smith, the only pole vaulter to clear 18 feet indoors. Others who would be popular attractions include Rick Wohluter, who recently broke Ryun's world 880-yard record, and Dave Wottle, last year's 880-meter Olympic

Keino All the Way

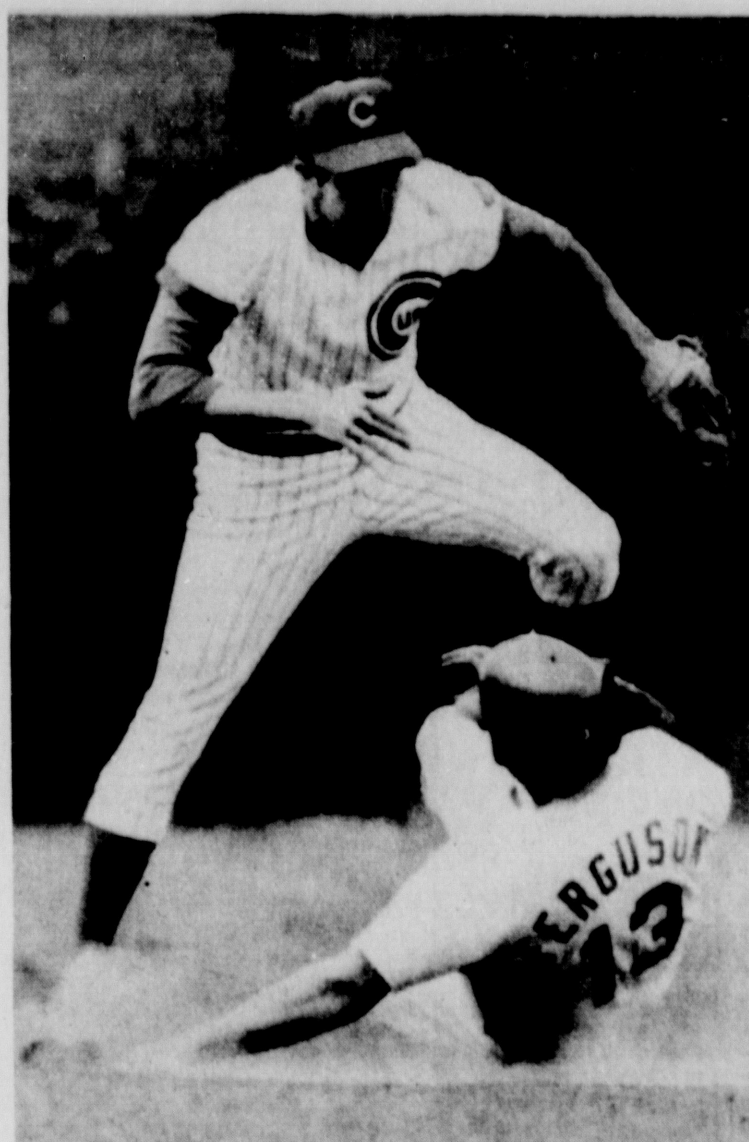

Kip Keino is all alone as he breaks the tape to win the mile run in a slow time of 4:03 during the ITA meet in New York, Wednesday. Jim Ryun finished last in a field of four, nearly 30 yards behind Keino. The favored, ex-Kansas standout, booed when the race ended, went to the microphone at the conclusion of the meet and apologized to the crowd for his poor showing.

NAIA Tennis Semis On Tap Today in KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Top-seeded Milan Kofol was to meet Dave Peterson and John Brush, No. 2 seed, was to play Bob Hochstadter in semifinal matches today in the National Intercollegiate Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tennis tournament.

Kofol of Presbyterian, S.C., College downed Speedy Gilstrap, Columbus, Ga., College 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, in quarter-final action Wednesday.

Brush of the University of Redlands, Calif., defeated Ralph Hart, Presbyterian, 6-2, 6-7, 6-4.

Hochstadter of East Texas State beat Seabury Stanton of Redlands, 6-7, 6-4, 7-6.

Peterson, Gustavus Adolphus, Minn., won by default from Wilson Campbell of East Texas. Campbell, who retired because of pulled stomach muscles, had beaten Janice Metcalf of Redlands, the first woman to play in the tourney since 1964, 7-6-6-0 earlier in the day.

Redlands, seeking to win its seventh title in the last eight years, had 31 points to 28 for Presbyterian. Defending champion East Texas was out of the running.

Rain, Mixup Alter Ban Johnson Play

Rain and a mix-up in scheduling has kept the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League inactive so far this week. Rain forced postponement of Tuesday games in Jefferson City (vs. Centralia) and Boonville (vs. California). The other game, which was to have seen Sedalia at Marshall, was postponed until Saturday night due to scheduling problems at Indian Foothills Park, where softball is slated on Tuesday. That game has been reset for 8 p.m. Saturday in Marshall.

But before the Merchants, 1-1 and currently in a second-place tie with Boonville and Tipton in the western division of the CMBJ loop, can think about Saturday night's contest, they will travel to California tonight for an 8 p.m. game. California is one of two teams in the 10-team league that has nothing to show in the victory column.

Sunday, California caught the brunt of Marshall's high-powered offense and dropped both ends of a doubleheader. California has also lost to Tipton, 6-4.

Four other games are on tap tonight. Those include Columbia Skaggs at Jefferson City, Tipton at Boonville, Marshall at Columbia Angels and Huntsville at Centralia.

One game is slated Friday, that finds the Columbia Angels in Moberly in an eastern division battle with Huntsville.

Central Missouri Ban Johnson Standings (Through Wednesday) Eastern Division

	W	L
Columbia Angels	2	0
Columbia Skaggs	1	1
Jefferson City	1	1
Centralia	1	2
Huntsville	0	2

Western Division

	W	L
Marshall	4	0
Boonville	1	1
Sedalia	1	1
Tipton	1	1
California	0	3

Tuesday's Results — Sedalia at Marshall, p.p.d. due to scheduling problem; Centralia at Jefferson City, p.p.d. rain; California at Boonville, p.p.d. rain.

Thursday's Schedule — Sedalia at California, 8 p.m.; Tipton at Boonville, 8 p.m.; Columbia Skaggs at Jefferson City, 8 p.m.; Marshall at Columbia Angels, 8 p.m.; Huntsville at Centralia, 8 p.m.

Friday's Schedule — Columbia Angels vs. Huntsville at Moberly, 7:30 p.m.

Saturday's Schedule — Sedalia at Marshall, 8 p.m.

Halting Production Of Fighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has decided to shut down production of its F111 fighter-bomber.

General Dynamics Corp., builder of the plane for the past decade, said it was "disappointed and flabbergasted" to learn of the Pentagon decision that was announced Wednesday.

Deputy Defense Secretary William P. Clements said F111 production will halt when the currently ordered 543 planes are delivered at the end of 1974.

The Air Force originally intended to buy 1,726 from General Dynamics when the program began in 1962 under former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

At the time, McNamara hailed the plane as the most sophisticated, versatile and economical fighter or bomber ever built. Since then, more than two dozen have crashed, some under mysterious circumstances. Others have disappeared during night missions over Indochina with no clue why they went down.

After 55 missions over Indochina in 1969 the planes were ordered home. However, they now are flying all-weather missions over Cambodia.

In announcing the step, Clements, a Texan, cut off a production line in his home state. General Dynamics turns out the planes in Fort Worth. In the past, Texas legislators had been successful in persuading the Pentagon to keep production going.

Despite a new government examination of F111 production, Clements said he decided new F111s fall below "a number of other critical department of Defense requirements."

A rational alternative to rationing gas.

What's right with this picture? Well if it were true, we'd be saving 28 billion, 560 million gallons of gas every year.

How did we arrive at that figure? Since we're a nation of national averages, we know the average car uses about 735 gallons of gas a year. The Beetle, 399*. Turn the eighty-five million average cars on the road right now into Beetles, and it works out to a saving of 28,560,000,000 (give or take a few gallons).

Now we haven't figured out all the water and antifreeze that would be saved with the Beetle's air-cooled engine.

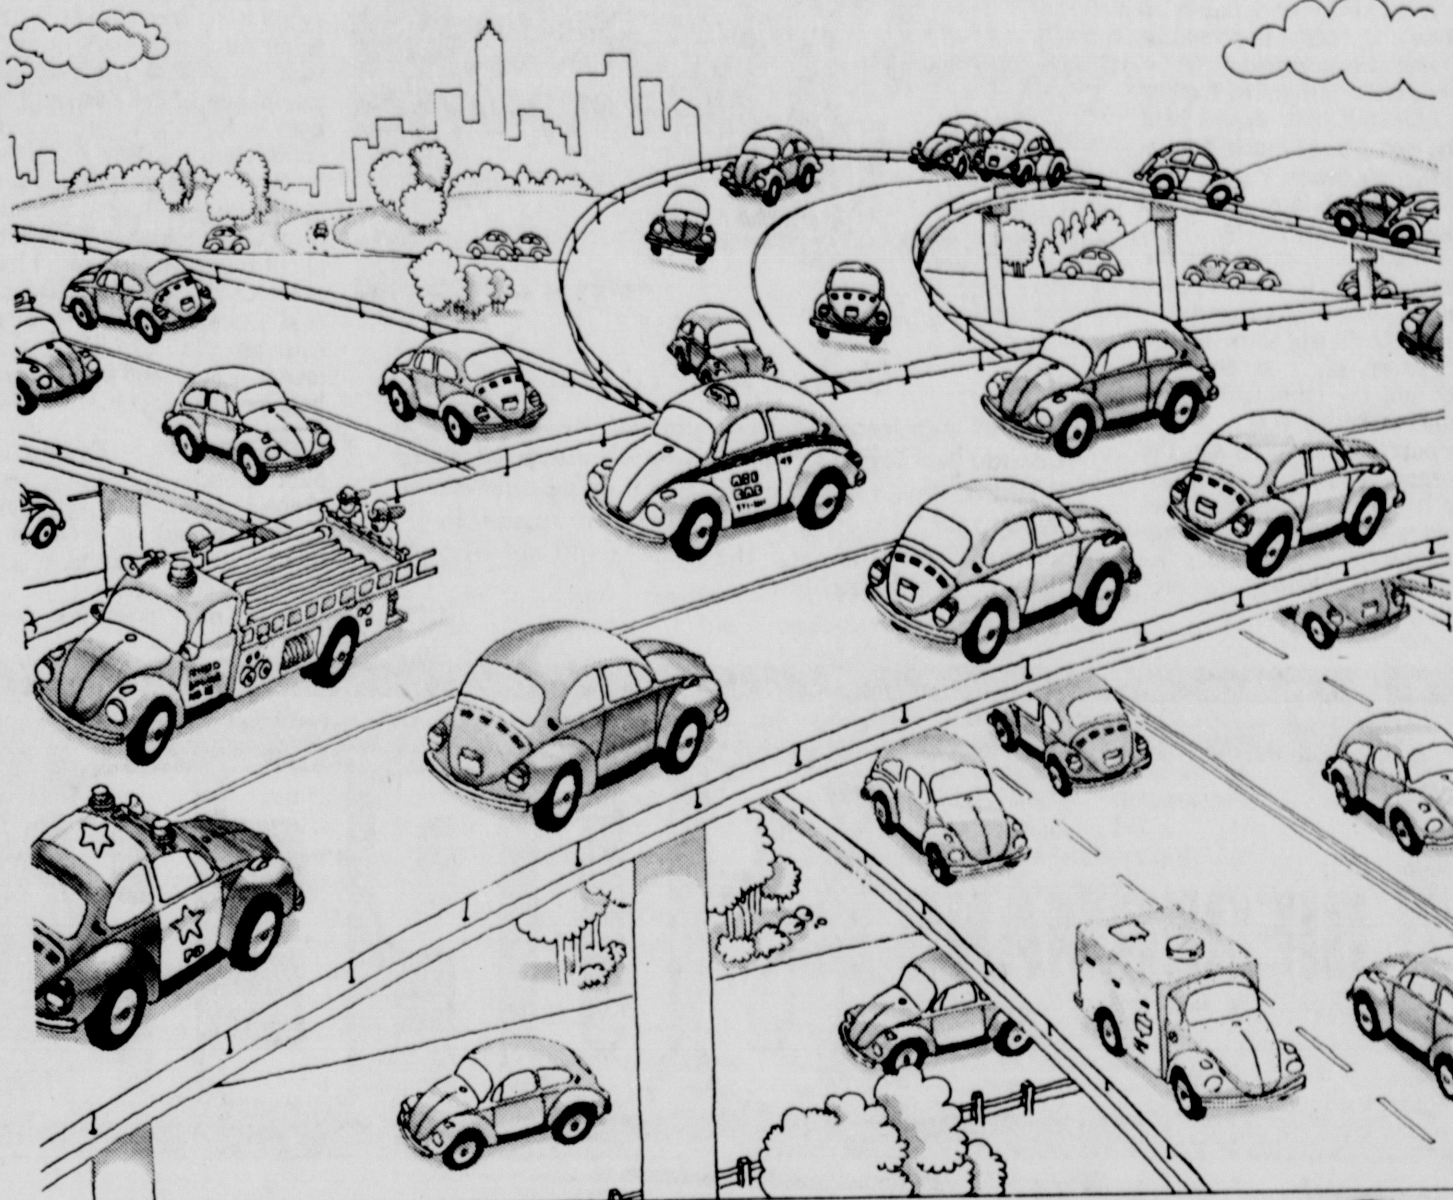

Nor can we compute the extra parking space that would be around.

Not to mention all the money people would be able to save in a world of Volkswagens.

But we know for sure that this is no pipe dream. There already are police car Beetles up in Ossining. And a custom built, chauffeur-driven Bug in L. A. And Volkswagen taxis all over Honduras. And a Beetle that herds cattle in Missouri.

So with gas prices going up and rationing becoming a reality, the Beetle never looked so good. In fact, you might almost call it beautiful.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

Grain Export Disclosure Program May Be Stopped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has warned grain exporters it will discontinue its newly announced program of voluntary grain export disclosures if dealers don't cooperate in providing the necessary information.

Discontinuation of the program could give added impetus to efforts to legislate mandatory disclosure requirements. Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, already has introduced a bill that would require grain exporters to tell the Agriculture Department within 48 hours of any grain sales they make to foreign countries.

At present, exporters are not required to tell the department how much grain they are selling overseas or to whom they are selling it.

Several congressmen have charged that this situation allowed exporters to keep secret details of the sale of U.S. wheat to Russia.

Since farmers did not know of the sale, and of the increased demand for their wheat, they sold when the price was around $1.70 per bushel. That price later skyrocketed to more than $2.50 per bushel as details of the massive sale became known.

The Agriculture Department finally reacted to growing congressional pressure by announcing its voluntary disclosure program. This program is to go into effect later this month with the first disclosures made July 6.

Department officials told exporters at a meeting Wednesday they felt the voluntary plan was the most acceptable proposal available. But they warned that it could not work unless all dealers cooperated in providing the needed information.

Under the program, exporters will tell the department each week how much wheat, barley, soybeans, corn and grain sorghum they have sold to overseas buyers. This information will be compiled by the department and released each week as statistical surveys.

The reports will show the total export sales made each week and the cumulative total by the marketing year.

Department officials say the information should be of assistance to farmers, exporters and government officials who are charged with making policy decisions on marketing and production.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Vitamin E, Leg Cramps Discussed

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can you help me? For four years now I have gone to several doctors and even had X rays for my problem. They either say I'm too young for my symptoms, or they don't know what it is that's wrong. And the last one said he thought I was out of my mind.

For the past four years I have had severe chest pains. My age is 22 and I have had four children. I have been awakened with my chest aching. It felt like it was being crushed and I had a hard time breathing. It seemed to start down in my back and work its way up into my chest and ache clear into my back. The pain is so severe that I sometimes had to get a shot for the pain. The longest it has lasted is about five hours.

I also have trouble in swallowing my food. I take small bites and chew it up as well as possible, it feels like sandpaper going down. The pain is located where my ribs come together. I have also had X rays for this. I drank some chalky fluid and the doctor said he found nothing. This started about four years ago too. I have a lot of trouble with gas and acid. Doctor, I just don't think I can go through this much longer. I hope and pray you can help me. Thank you.

Dear Reader — Every chest pain is not a sign of heart disease. From your symptoms alone I would be inclined to think that you do not have heart disease at your age. Heart pain does not cause pain in the back and it is not associated with difficulty in swallowing. More likely you are having spasms of your digestive tract, including the esophagus. This can cause severe chest pain mimicking the pain of a heart attack. Muscles in the esophagus tube clamp down and act like a muscle cramp.

You have a history of a lot of digestive disturbances and since you've already had X rays, I would presume that you don't have any major obstruction. Anyone who has difficulty in swallowing certainly must have a complete medical examination. Having done that, the best advice I can give you is to change your diet completely. Eliminate all milk and all milk products, including cheese, buttermilk or any foods that are made from milk, coffee, caffeinated or decaffeinated tea, do not smoke, eliminate all alcoholic beverages if you use them, try to eat a diet made of very lean meat, such as baked chicken, broiled lean beef or broiled fish. Avoid excess use of breads. You can use some Jello, avoid spicy foods, and if you respond well to this procedure, later on you can add more cereals to your diet.

If this regimen helps you a great deal I would suspect that you might have intolerance to some of these foods and you'll have to be careful about which ones you use. High on the list of aggravating factors in your case may well be milk, milk products and coffee. I feel fairly confident that your problem is not heart disease and that most of it originates with difficulties in your digestive tract.

Stress and tension may also be an important factor. Try to minimize the amount of daily stress you have.

Medicare Extension To Begin July 1

Starting July 1, Medicare coverage will be extended to 1.7 million disabled people under 65.

Disabled people who have received social security disability payments for two years or more will be able to get help from Medicare in paying their hospital and doctor bills and other covered services, according to C. Kent Charles, social security district manager in Sedalia. Medicare was previously available only to people 65 or over.

"Those eligible for coverage," Charles said, "will include disabled workers, disabled widows and disabled dependent widowers between 50 and 65, disabled mothers 50 or older who get social security benefits because they have young or disabled children in their care, and people who get benefits because they were disabled before age 22."

People getting monthly social security checks because they are disabled will be notified if they are eligible for Medicare. Widows 50 or over who have been severely disabled the last two years but haven't filed a claim because they're getting checks as mothers caring for young or disabled children should apply for disabled widows benefits to see if they can get Medicare.

"People under 65 who need kidney transplants or dialysis will be eligible for Medicare too, if they've worked long enough under social security, Charles said.

"This health insurance protection will also be available to insured workers' wives or husbands and dependent children who need dialysis or kidney transplants," he said.

Under recent changes in the social security law, the hospital insurance part of Medicare will also be extended to people 65 and older who previously didn't qualify for coverage because they haven't worked long enough under social security, Charles said. Initially, the premium will be $33 a month for Medicare hospital insurance protection. The premium may be increased later if hospital costs rise.

"People buying hospital coverage under this protection will also be required to enroll for medical insurance coverage," Charles said.

The livestock handled each year by Canada's meat industry would fill 200,000 freight cars.

State Senate Passes Appropriations Bills

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate Thursday passed and sent to the governor three appropriations bills—for public education, the Revenue Department and state offices.

The 1973-74 budgets had been worked out in a House-Senate conference committee and approved by the House.

The total for elementary and secondary education is $508.5, which is $1.3 million more than recommended by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

The Revenue Department budget is $88.3 million, $1 million less than the governor's recommendation.

The budget of $712.2 million for the operation of most state offices is $4 million more than the governor's recommendation.

Midnight Friday is the deadline for action on the appropriations bills. Still before the legislature are budgets for higher education, welfare, mental health and corrections, and capital improvements.

The Senate agreed to a conference committee on the capital improvements bill. Amounts for the other three bills have been agreed upon in conference committee and are awaiting House consideration.

The Senate accepted Thursday a conference committee figure of $125.7 million for mental health and corrections. The House, which rejected the amount, must now either accept it or ask that it go back into conference committee.

The House passed and sent to the Senate amended bills to allow persons to pay off misdeemeanor court fines in installments and to allow persons confined for misdemeanor offenses to obtain schooling or employment.

The House also passed and returned to the Senate a bill to relieve physicians, surgeons, dentists and other medical professions from any liability for damages as a result of decisions they make while acting on boards reviewing professional standards.

The bill was amended to include "mobile emergency medical technicians" and to require specific evidence supporting the decision made by any such board, and to exclude doctors, nurses and other hospital personnel from participating in abortion procedures if it is against their religious or moral beliefs.

The Senate promptly asked that the bill be sent to a joint conference committee after Sen. A. Clifford, R-Brentwood, questioned whether the bill's title should have been amended when the amendments were added.

A House bill allowing doctors and nurses to refuse to participate in abortions was scheduled to come up Friday in the Senate.

A bill setting up an overseas trade office to promote Missouri products received Senate approval but was returned to the House with an amendment allowing only one office to be established. The location has not been decided, although Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps has suggested Brussels or Tokyo.

Haldeman Says President Got 2nd Hand Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman has testified that President Nixon didn't ask for a formal report on the Watergate affair until this year and got all his information about the scandal second hand, through aides.

"The principal source (of information) would be inquiries that he would make of me or John Ehrlichman as to the status of the case ... which I would subsequently direct to John Dean," Haldeman said. "In other words, I would relay the question to John and relay the answer back to the President."

Ehrlichman was Nixon's chief advisor on domestic affairs until April 30 when Haldeman and he resigned. Dean, White House counsel, was fired by Nixon the same day.

Haldeman's testimony was in a deposition taken in connection with a civil suit filed by the Democratic National Committee in the aftermath of the bugging and burglary at the committee's Watergate headquarters last summer. While Haldeman testified about the Watergate incident, he refused on the advice of his lawyer to talk about any subsequent coverup.

Nixon never talked to Dean about the Watergate case face-to-face until a series of meetings beginning last February and even then did not ask Dean—or anyone else—for a formal investigation or report on the scandal until March 20, Haldeman said in his deposition.

For almost eight months the White House stood by President Nixon's statement of last Aug. 29 that Dean had cleared all administration employees of involvement in Watergate.

On April 17, when Nixon declared he had found major developments in the case, the White House said the President's original statement had become inoperative.

Haldeman also indicated that he may have been told before the Watergate incident that political wiretapping and espionage had been discussed at high-level campaign strategy meetings. But he said he later got conflicting reports on just what went on at the meetings.

Haldeman's deposition included statements that:

—He controlled a secret $350,000 campaign fund which he said was intended for use in making private campaign polls for the President.

—He had been told about accused political saboteur Donald Segretti. But he wouldn't answer questions about Segretti's operations because his lawyer claimed the information wasn't relevant.

—Nixon was frustrated last summer and fall because whole story of the Watergate incident was not being made public.

—Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who was director of Nixon's re-election committee at the time of the break-in, told Haldeman as late as last March that it was possible deputy campaign director Jeb Magruder had engineered the break-in under pressure from White House officials to get information about the Democrats.

S. Viets 'Not Going To Sign Anything'

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced Thursday it does not intend to sign any new ceasefire agreements drawn up in Paris by the United States and North Vietnam.

A second round of talks on bringing an end to the present Vietnam cease-fire violations has been under way in the French capital between Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho since Wednesday.

After the announcement by the Saigon government, the U.S. presidential adviser called off a planned morning session with Tho but showed up for the scheduled afternoon meeting smiling and jovial. He said he canceled the morning session because "we just needed more time to prepare something." He did not say what.

The South Vietnamese announcement raised the question in some quarters that the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu might be doubtful about documents that could result from the Kissinger-Tho meetings.

The announcement came from the government spokesman, Bui Bao Truc, who said: "We are not going to sign anything."

According to the South Vietnamese, the cease-fire documents signed on Jan. 27 were valid enough and the new sessions in Paris were prompted only by what they called the truce violations by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

Saigon's announcement followed a meeting of the South Vietnamese's National Security Council and Thieu.

Thieu later met for three hours with U.S. Ambassador Charles Whitehouse.

It was after the Thieu-Whitehouse meeting that Kissinger and Tho opened their delayed session.

It had been reported earlier that the Kissinger-Tho negotiations were aimed at exploring methods to implement the original agreement rather than renegotiate or amend it. These reports also said that the Saigon government had agreed in principle on 11 points in the original agreement which should be implemented but offered counterproposals on how this should be done.

Wholesale Price Index Ignores Forecast Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices increased by 2.1 per cent during May, the second largest hike in two decades, government figures disclosed Thursday.

The rise, much of which will show up later in higher retail prices, came when the administration had predicted the rate should be declining.

The figures reported by the Labor Department showed that the May increase in the wholesale price index, led by more expensive farm products, was the biggest since March and the second biggest since January 1951.

On an annual rate, it is an increase of 25.2 per cent.

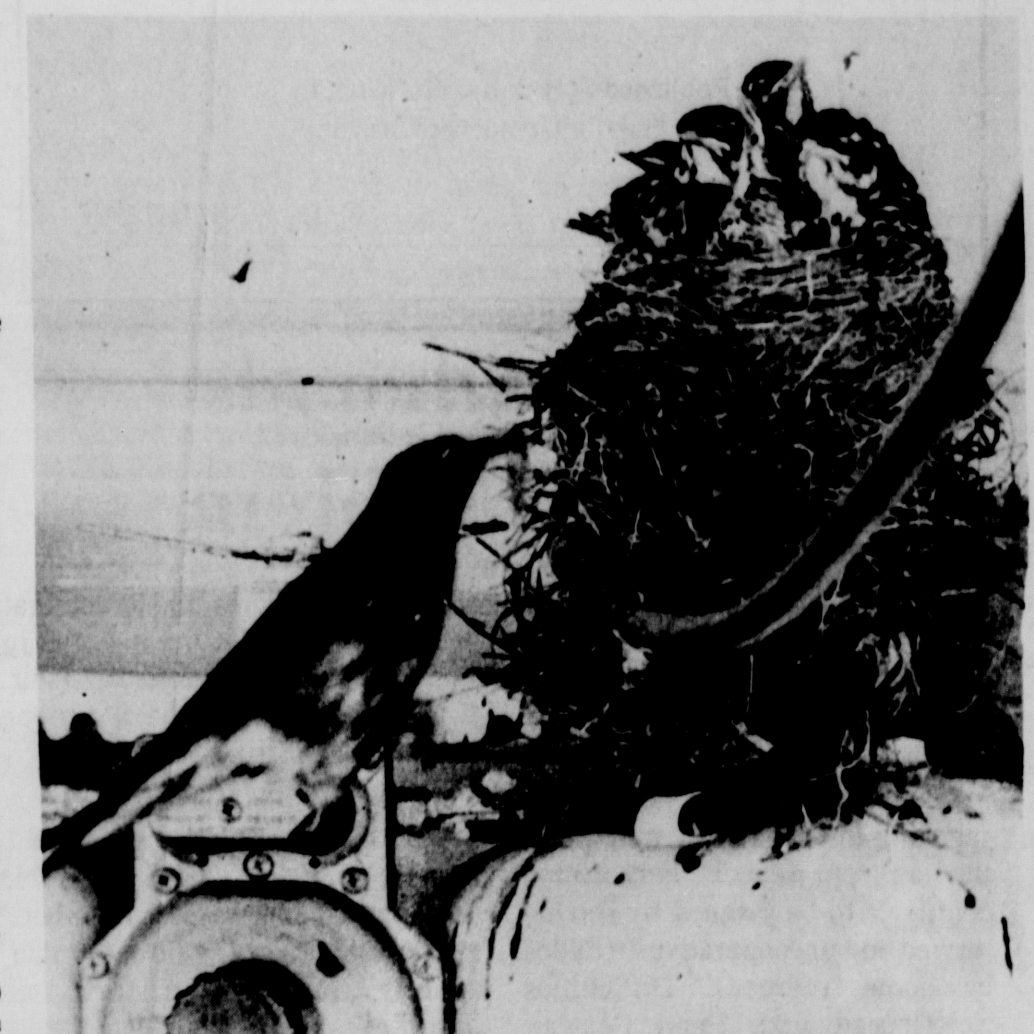

Wholesale prices have increased at an annual rate of 22.8 per cent during the first four months of the Phase 3 anti-inflation program, compared to a rate of 6.9 per cent during all of the 14 months of the Phase 2 program, which had stricter price controls.

President George Meany of the AFL-CIO said the May increase portends a further squeeze on workers' paychecks.

"This is another clear indication of the utterly lopsided nature of the administration's economic program, with only workers' wages under control, while prices, profits and interest rates are soaring," Meany said.

Even before the index was announced, President Nixon was holding a series of meetings with his economic advisers and the Cabinet, amid speculation over some new moves to restrain inflation.

To Head FBI

Kelley Nominated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon Thursday nominated Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley to be per-

Clarence M. Kelley ...
... FBI director-designate manent director of the FBI, saying Kelley will give the agency "strong and independent leadership."

The 61-year-old Kelley spent 21 years with the FBI before becoming police chief of the Missouri city in 1961. Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson told reporters he felt Kelley's FBI service would satisfy the many senior officials of the agency who had urged Nixon to pick a director from their own ranks.

Morale within the FBI has been shaky for some months.

J. Edgar Hoover, who had run the FBI for 47 years, died 13 months ago.

L. Patrick Gray III, a retired Navy officer, was named acting director and then nominated for the permanent job. But Gray resigned April 26 following disclosure that he had destroyed materials taken from the White House safe of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.

William D. Ruckelshaus now is caretaker chief of the agency and will remain until Kelley is confirmed by the Senate.

Posing for pictures with the tall, gray-haired Kelley, Nixon said an exhaustive search for a new FBI chief had finally been narrowed to 27 candidates and that Kelley was judged to be the best of the lot.

Kelley, credited with helping to produce a 25 per cent drop in Kansas City's crime rate in the past four years, told reporters he would work to foster close cooperation among federal, state and local law enforcement agencies in order to mount "concerted attacks on crime."

Kelley's zeal for providing the Kansas City police department with the latest in law enforcement technology has caused him to be likened to comic strip cop Dick Tracy.

County Firemen List Demands

Members of Pettis County Firefighters Local 2228 Thursday presented to the County Court an eight-point proposal calling for a three-year contract and an additional $53,000 in wages and benefits.

Presiding Judge Harry Walch said the court would discuss the matter with the firefighters next week.

Firefighters Robert Paxton and Howard Teague, Local 2228 president, presented the paper to the court. City firefighter Robert Vogler, Local 823 president, accompanied the county firemen. He said he would serve as an "observer and adviser" in negotiations.

Teague said even though just three of the present six employees of the county fire department are members of Local 2228, the proposals were approved by each employee.

The eight-point plan calls for:
✓ An increase in wages of $300 a month per man over the next three years. Specifically, a $150 increase retroactive to Jan. 1 and additional $75 increases over the next two years. This increase would raise the firefighters' salaries to $1.73 an hour from the present rate of $1.28 an hour, according to the proposal. The increase would cost the county $9,000 this year and $9,000 the next two years.

✓ A cost of living allowance to be paid on one lump sum on Dec. 1 each year. The cost would depend on the rate of inflation, Teague said.

✓ Seven paid holidays. Presently, Teague said, county firemen have no paid holidays.

✓ The hiring of another firefighter and reduction of working hours from 72 to 56 per week.

✓ Blue Cross and Blue Shield insurance benefits to be paid by the County Court.

✓ Seven days vacation for the first three years, 14 days vacation for firemen from three to eight-years experience, 21 days for nine through 12-years of experience and 30 days for more than 12 years on the force.

✓ Uniforms, badges, name plates, new aluminum ladders, first aid equipment and safety equipment for the firefighters.

✓ New furniture for the firehouse.

The proposal said the three-year plan would cost the county $22,070 the first year and $15,676 a year for the next two years.

"We, the members of Local 2228, are the lowest paid employees of any department in Pettis County earning $396 per month for 312 hours of duty," the proposal stated. "We are making $1.28 per hour, 32 cents below minimum wage scale. At present wages we make $4,752 per year, which is $2,448 below the minimum standard acceptable for a family of four prepared by the U.S. Bureau of Labor."

The proposal also said that "timely and informal meetings with the court to discuss our problems and needs" will help alleviate the "low morale."

The judges of the court Thursday had no comment concerning the eight-step plan.

Taxicabs, Ambulances Discussed by Council

A meeting will be arranged with a local taxicab company owner, the municipal ordinance dealing with ambulances will be revised, and the City Council probably will not reconsider its Monday decision to decline the County Court's request for reassessment participation, it was learned at a special council session Wednesday night.

The council and Mayor Jerry Jones briefly discussed Monday night's action concerning not helping the county with reassessment. Councilman George Dugan Jr. of the Fourth Ward pointed out that several councilmen were not heard in the voice vote, and that it might be beneficial for the council to discuss with the County Court what type of cooperation in other areas could be achieved if the city did contribute financially to reassessment.

Councilman Raymond Bales of the Second Ward restated the opposition to city participation which he expressed Monday night. He dismissed cooperation in other areas as being of little value and criticized the court's public stance that the reassessment will be an equalizer when, he said, it is actually intended to be a method of increasing revenue.

The discussion was ended when it became apparent that nothing would be accomplished beyond Monday's action.

Information sent to the council by Don Feeback, administrator at Bothwell Hospital, concerning a hospital-controlled ambulance service was discussed. All the councilmen who commented indicated they felt the cost would be prohibitive.

"I'd like to see it operated through the hospital but not at these prices," Third Ward Councilman Carl Franklin said.

Lee Garrison, of the Fourth Ward, said he felt, as he has since ambulances were originally discussed, that it would be best for ambulance service to be under hospital control, but agreed with Franklin about the cost. He noted, however, that other Missouri cities currently are operating hospital-controlled ambulance services with financial success.

The councilmen indicated a tougher ordinance coupled with a subsidy awarded through competitive bidding would be the eventual method of improving local ambulance service. All agreed that rewriting the ordinance is the first step and work will begin soon on that project, it was reported.

Figures provided the council by Feeback indicated the ambulance service could cost as much as $119,000 a year. However, after subtracting revenue and other income, the total deficit the city would face might be a little more than $48,000, according to Mayor Jones.

"I think it's a realistic figure, based on what we've been told by other hospitals,

SAN FRANCISCO — No matter how often a stranger comes back to the Top of the Mark, the excitement never fades. If you've left your heart in San Francisco, the city by midnight packs the same wallop every time: Diamonds on black velvet, and wind like cold champagne. You look down on a city of beauty and strength and grace — but this Saturday at midnight, you wonder at the depravity, too.

world, he goes where the beat takes him. "Deep Throat," in its own morbid fashion, is the best and worst combined. It is the richest piece of pornography ever contrived.

The movie "Deep Throat" has been playing for 13 weeks at the Presidio Centre, and at North Beach theaters. I went around to the Presidio to take in the last show of the evening. No apologies. If a reporter's beat is the best and the worst of this

Doubtless the title will pass to some other film before long, but for now, "Deep Throat" is the champion of its skunk-cabbage field. The film reportedly cost no more than $25,000 to produce. Its gross already has passed $5 million, according to trade estimates, and customers still are flocking in. The proprietors of "art" theaters and "X" houses look upon it, though the word seems odd, as their salvation.

Sam Calhoun, manager of the Presidio, is a part of the mad incongruity of the new pornography. There was a time, not so long ago, when stag movies were shown only in grimy little book stores or in sleazy second-floor walkups. The proprietors were hard-eyed uglies, soiled by the flesh trade. No more. The Presidio's red carpets are getting worn, but this is a nice house, and Calhoun looks as if he ought to work with Eagle Scouts on his weekends. He is young, agreeable, sandy-haired. He is a salesman well pleased with the new car he is selling. "Have a look," he says.

We stand in a side aisle, watching "Deep Throat" reel on. The color quality is good; the camera work, especially in closeups, is professionally flawless; the direction, like the action, is explicit. Calhoun points all this out, as if he were talking of white sidewalls and disc brakes. What we are watching, of course, is unrelieved lewdness — 62 minutes of hard-core carnality. Calhoun, the friendly neighborhood dealer, might be admiring a nice grill and fender.

The Presidio seats 740. Calhoun has a full house tonight. He has been averaging 75 per cent of capacity, eight shows a day, since "Deep Throat" began. Sunday's Chronicle carries a prideful ad from the three theaters showing the film: "Over 246,490 happy, smiling, satisfied people have seen 'Deep Throat' in our city."

Who are these happy customers? Calhoun says nearly half of them are women, and a random count of eight rows confirms his statement. On weekdays, nearly two-thirds of his matinee house will be composed of suburban housewives who come to town for luncheon, shopping, and "Deep Throat." Office girls giggle in for a long lunch hour. Most of the patrons, men and women, are in their twenties or early thirties. One white-haired couple approaches sixty.

Calhoun gets a brisk business from tour

groups who come in buses, and from visiting firemen in town on convention, but the bulk of his customers are locals. They file out, a little before midnight. A few women look faint; a few look revolted; most of them are vacantly smiling. When I was growing up, you used to see these same pleased expressions, after the curtain, on crowds leaving a Mae West movie. They thought it was funny, and it was funny then.

This isn't funny. It's sick. The pornographers who put this film together took the sexual relationship of man and woman, drained it of tenderness and love, and put it on the midway as a sideshow freak: Linda Lovelace in one tent, Frog Boy in the next. And Calhoun, amiably discussing next year's models, has better and worse ahead.

To say that pornography is a cancer in the body politic is to say too much. Pornography is more like an abscess. High on the Top of the Mark, one sees this infection in perspective, an ugly blemish on a tolerably healthy society. Up close, pornography is something else. Up close, it looks like pus.

Hands of President
are tied

WASHINGTON — No one believes in the separation of powers more than I do. But when Congress voted last week to cut off funds used to bomb Cambodia I think they went too far.

It has been one of the traditions of the government for the past 10 years that a President has the authority to bomb where and when he wants to regardless of race, creed or color.

This has worked very well and the United States has dropped more bombs on Indochina than it did during World Wars I, II, III, IV and V.

Not only was Congress wrong in refusing to vote the funds for the future bombing of Cambodia but it couldn't have picked a more inopportune time to have done it. President Nixon is beset with tremendous problems at home and abroad. He has lost his White House staff; the Senate committee keeps probing into his role in the Watergate affair; men he trusted have been lying through their teeth about administration coverups; the CIA refuses to play ball with the President's version of what happened after Watergate; and the FBI, after a slow start, is uncovering massive violations of the law.

The only solace the President could take during this period is that he could bomb Cambodia whenever he wanted to. He could pick up the phone at any time, day or night, and say, "Henry, I've had a bad day. I want six squadrons of B-52s to dump two million tons of bombs on the suburbs of Phnomh Penh."

Even while the press was zeroing in on the so-called "plumbers'" operation in the White House, even while John Dean was spilling the beans to Newsweek and Time, even though John Mitchell was telling reporters he had no intention of being a scapegoat, the President could survive because he knew if things really got rough he could always kick the hell out of Indochina.

It seems to me that Congress should have taken this into consideration when it overwhelmingly voted to cut off this presidential option. While they certainly have the right to look into Watergate, and while no one disputes their sincerity in getting us out of Indochina once and for all, bombing is still the President's business.

Many times we have been told that only Presidents really know what it is to be President. It is the loneliest job in the world with very few satisfactions.

One of the big pluses was that as Commander-in-Chief you could send Air Force and Navy planes against any target you felt threatened the security of the United States.

By cutting off funds to bomb Cambodia, Congress has tied the President's hands behind his back. They have made it impossible for him to use the weapons that he has at his disposal for whatever purposes he deems necessary to teach the North Vietnamese a lesson. It is a dastardly move that could only depress the President more than he is right now.

I am not just thinking of President Nixon when I protest this congressional action. I am thinking of future Presidents of the United States.

One of the great inducements for becoming President is being able to bomb targets at will without consulting Congress. It is probably the greatest fringe benefit the American people can offer the holder of the most important position in this land.

My fear is that Congress in taking this prerogative away from the President may have discouraged many qualified people from running for this office.

Countless presidential candidates have told me personally, "If I can't bomb Cambodia when I want to, I'm not interested in the job."

So the question I pose today is: Can we afford to lose this caliber of men just because Congress has thrown out the baby with the bath water?

Amtrak's railroads
part of the problem

If Amtrak is to be a success, it looks like it will be despite the management of certain participating railroads rather than because of it.

An Amtrak sales executive, speaking in Sedalia last week, said the rail passenger corporation continues to be plagued by shoddy service and uncooperative attitudes by some railroads. Difficulties experienced with Penn Central, which runs the New York-to-Kansas City National Limited as far west as St. Louis, were mentioned as a prime example.

Those who have had experience with this particular route can only add an "amen." Not only do the Penn Central crews run chronically late, but cars are often filthy and personnel rude. This is in contrast to other Amtrak routes, which can offer an enjoyable travel experience.

There are other railroads, Missouri Pacific and the Southern Pacific among them, that have shown something less than wholehearted support for Amtrak.

Under the management set-up governing Amtrak, however, apparently it is extremely difficult to correct deficiencies. Amtrak can point out problems and order that they be solved, but it can't step in and actually run the railroad itself. This could prove to be a serious flaw in the entire system.

A network television news program recently examined Amtrak's board of directors, pointing out that several members are presidents of railroads that actively sought to destroy rail passenger transportation, and nearly did it. Such a situation gives one pause as to just how badly some who are running Amtrak want it to succeed.

On the plus side of the ledger, however, are certain factors that point to an increased role for passenger trains. Urban congestion, the high costs of building airports and highways, environmental and pollution factors, conservation of energy — all help to make a good case for retaining and expanding rail passenger transportation, especially in certain areas.

A public that is aware of these considerations, and increasingly impatient with those who would abuse Amtrak's tax-supported operating funds, can help insure that the passenger trains will keep running.

WASHINGTON — By President Nixon's account, aide John Ehrlichman wasn't supposed to impede the Watergate investigation but merely to make sure it didn't impinge upon national security. Yet Ehrlichman spoke only about political security when he asked Herbert Kalmbach to participate in the Watergate cover-up.

As Kalmbach has recounted the conversation to investigators, Ehrlichman warned that the investigation could "jeopardize" the election campaign. In a reference to the Democrats, he snorted: "They'll have our heads in their laps."

Kalmbach had agreed to raise money to pay the living and legal expenses of the Watergate defendants. He was never told the money would be offered as a bribe to buy their silence, but the James Bond intrigue made him suspicious.

He sought reassurances from Ehrlichman, whom he confronted in the White House in late July. Kalmbach told investigators that he put the question on a personal basis. "John," he said, "we've been friends for 10 years. You know my family and I know your family. I want you to tell me whether this assignment is proper and must be carried out."

He quoted Ehrlichman as reassuring him that the payoffs were entirely proper but that the secrecy was necessary for political reasons.

The last approach to Kalmbach for payoff money was made as late as Jan. 18, 1973, at a meeting in ex-Attorney General John Mitchell's office. Kalmbach recalled that John Dean, then the White House counsel, had accompanied him to the meeting. But by this time, Kalmbach had decided he wanted nothing more to do with the project, so he quietly excused himself after 10 minutes.

Merry-go-round

Hush money raised
by Herb Kalmbach

As the President's personal attorney, Kalmbach has been one of the most silent men in the Watergate mystery. He has told his story to investigators, however, with quiet candor.

A few days after the Waterbuggers were caught, he was summoned to Washington by John Dean, who arranged to meet him on the street in front of the Hay-Adams Hotel. Dean carefully stressed the necessity for secrecy and then asked him to underwrite the Watergate defendant's expenses.

Dean suggested that the hush money, as it was later used, should be channeled through a burly New York private detective named Anthony Ulasewicz. The undercover man was known to Kalmbach who, in 1969, had set up a special bank account to pay him $22,000 a year, plus expenses, for investigative work. Ulasewicz's main assignment, though Kalmbach was never told this, was to dig up dirt on Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass.

Kalmbach told investigators he collected between $210,000 and $230,000, which was distributed to the Watergate defendants.

He picked up $75,000 from Maurice Stans, the Republican finance chairman; another $75,000 from Thomas Jones, president of Northrop Corp.; and the balance from campaign bag man Fred LaRue.

The arrangements were handled with elaborate secrecy. Kalmbach and Ulasewicz placed calls to one another through pay phones and used verbal shorthand to identify the people involved in their conversation.

Watergate ringleader E. Howard Hunt, for example, was referred to as "the writer," and his wife Dorothy as "the writer's wife." Ulasewicz used several aliases, his favorite being "Mr. Rivers."

Some of the money was directed to Dorothy Hunt who used the code name "Chris" in her own pay-phone calls to the other Watergate defendants.

It was this James Bond business, Kalmbach told investigators, that finally persuaded him to end his role in the Watergate conspiracy.

GREEK JUSTICE: Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., has triggered an unprecedented State Department protest to the Greek junta over the arrest of six lawyers in Athens. Their only crime, Bayh charged, was defending young college students who had demonstrated against the regime.

It was his understanding, he advised Secretary of State William Rogers privately, that the six were "being held incommunicado and subjected to torture by the special interrogation branch of the Greek military police in a building opposite our own embassy in Athens."

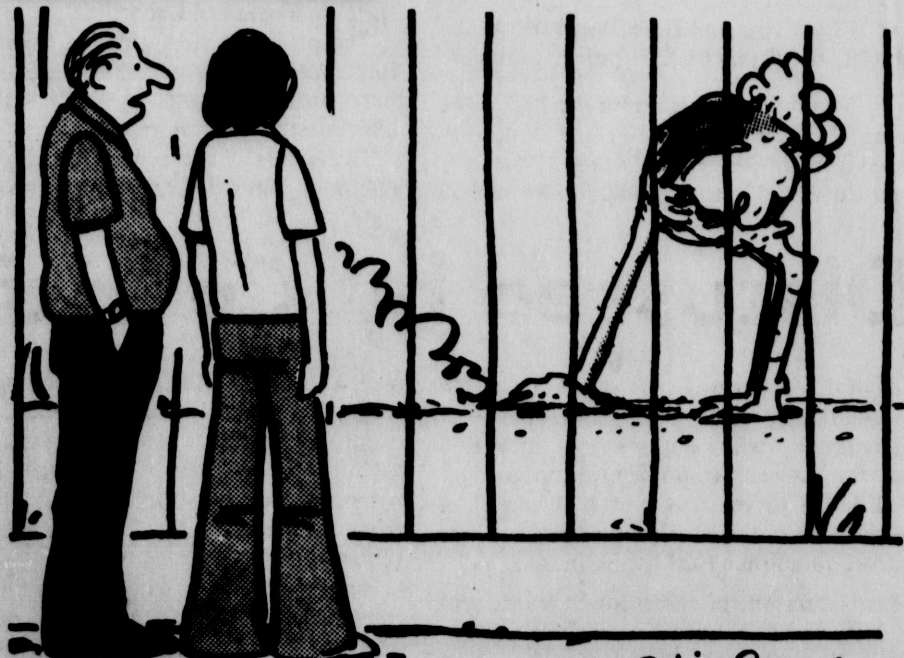

Rogers ordered aides to investigate the charges. He was sufficiently disturbed over their report to authorize a formal protest both to the Greek embassy in Washington and to the Greek government in Athens by way of the U.S. embassy.

The protest was diplomatically phrased as an expression of serious concern. Yet it was a significant departure for the State Department, since it touched on the internal affairs of Greece.

FOOTNOTE: Elias Demetracopoulos, the exile leader who first tipped Bayh to the torture of the lawyers, has told us that an American-trained sociologist, Virginia Tsouderos, and a university professor, Demetrios Tsatsos, both Greek citizens, have also been arrested in the case. Their crime, allegedly, was to protest the arrest of the six lawyers.

One major difference between an expert and an average player is that the expert sees all sorts of possibilities that the average player overlooks.

The average player would look over dummy; see that there was no apparent way to avoid the loss of a heart trick. Then he would draw trumps: lead his queen of hearts and hope that West would hold the king and not cover.

The expert would see two legitimate ways to make the grand slam. The way it works this time is for South to play a few rounds of trumps: cash dummy's ace of hearts: run off all his black cards and eventually make his 13th trick with his queen of hearts or one of dummy's small diamonds, depending on what poor East, who was dealt five diamonds and the king of hearts, is holding onto at the finish.

The way that doesn't work is for South to play dummy's ace and king of diamonds ruff a third diamond and then run off his black cards in the same manner. This play would have worked if West held the king of hearts and at least four diamonds.

Which line of play is the better one? The one that works, because it will bring home the contract against five diamonds and the king of hearts in either the East or West hand. The other line can only squeeze West.
